*MAGIC.—All the methods treated below have a relation to some belief in superhuman powers. They are usually found in any low form of civilization, and are utilized (1) to obtain a knowledge of the future; (2) to obtain some assistance in the affairs of life; (3) to produce or counteract evil influence.

Auxury.—(This Word, like Enchantment, signifies by Means of Omens.) Lev. 19:26; Deut. 18:10; II Ki. 21:6; II Chr. 33:6.
 Enchanters.—Deut. 18:10; II Ki. 21:6; Dan. 1:20; 2:2, 27; 4:7; 5:7, 11.

Enchantments.—II Chr. 33:6; Is. 47:9, 12. Familiar Spirits (Necromancy).—Lev. 19:31; 20:6, 27; Deut. 18:11; I Sam. 28:3, 7-9; II Ki. 21:6; 23:24; I Chr. 10:13; II Chr. 33:6; Is. 8:19; 19:3; 29:4.

Magicians.—(Used to interpret Dreams and to counteract Evil Influences.) Egyptian—Gen. 41:8, 24; Ex. 7:11, 22; 8:7, 18, 19; 9:11. Babylonian—Dan. 1:20; 2:2, 10, 27; 4:7, 9; 5:11.

Soothsayers.—(Makers of Predictions.) Balaam—Josh. 13:22. Copyists from Philistines—Is. 2:6. Judah's False Prophets—Jer. 27:9. Babylonian—Dan. 2:27; 4:7; 5:7, 11; Mic. 5:12. Soothsaying—Acts 16:16.

Diviners.—(Same as Soothsayers.) Deut. 18:14; I Sam. 6:2; 28:8; Is. 44:25; Jer. 27:9; 29:8; Ez. 13:9, 23; 21:29; Mic. 3:6, 7, 11; Zech. 10:2.

Divination.—Num. 22:7; 23:23; Deut. 18:10; II Ki. 17:17; Jer. 14:14; Ez. 12:24; 13:6, 7; 21:21, 22, 23; Acts 16:16.

Sorcerers.—(Mixers of Ingredients for Magical Ends.) Ex. 7:11; Deut. 18:10; Jer. 27:9; Dan. 2:2; Mal. 3:5; Acts 8:9-10; 13:6-8; 19:19; Rev. 21:8; 22:15. Sorceresses—Ex. 22:18; Is. 57:3. Sorcery—II Chr. 33:6; Is. 47:9, 12; Acts 8:9, 11; Gal. 5:20; Rev. 9:21; 18:23.

6 set over the kingdom <sup>a</sup> hundred and twenty <sup>2</sup> satraps, who should be throughout the whole kingdom; 2 and over them three presidents, of whom <sup>1</sup> Dān-ġēl was one; that these satraps might give account unto them, and that the king should have <sup>m</sup> no damage. 3 Then this Dān-ġēl was <sup>n</sup> distinguished above the presidents and the satraps, because an <sup>a</sup> excellent <sup>2</sup> spirit was in him; and the king thought to set him over the <sup>a</sup> whole realm.

4 Then the presidents and the satraps <sup>a</sup> sought to find occasion against Dān-ġēl as touching the kingdom; but they could find <sup>n</sup> no occasion nor fault, forasmuch as he was <sup>v</sup> faithful, neither was there any error or fault found in him. 5 Then said these men, We shall not find any occasion against this Dān-ġēl, except we find it against him concerning the <sup>z</sup> law of his <sup>a</sup> God. 6 Then these presidents

* HOSEA THE PROPHET.—Family unknown, except Name of Father, Beeri—Hos. 1:1. Time of Uzziah to Hezekiah (790-690) and Jeroboam II (784-745)—Hos. 1:1. Wife, Gomer, Daughter of Diblaim, Family unknown—1:3.

First Child, a Son, named Jezreel, after Jehu's Royal City—1:4. Name accompanied by Prediction of Fall of Jehu's Dynasty—1:4.

Second Child, a Daughter, named Lo-ruhamah (unpitied)—1:6. Name associated with Oracle of Withdrawal of Divine Mercy from Israel—1:6.

Third Child, a Son, named Lo-ammi (not my people)—1:8, 9. This Name memorialized Divine Rejection of Israel—1:9. Names followed by Prediction of Hope for Israel, the Greatness of Jezreel and Reacceptance of the People—1:10-2:1.

Gomer became a Faithless Wife—1:2; 2:5. She was counted an Emblem of Israel unfaithful to Jehovah—1:2; 2:20; 3:1. Her Lovers symbolized the False Gods in Israel—2:7, 13, 17; 3:1. Israel rebuked as faithless like Gomer—2:2-20; 3:4, 5.

Gomer, enslaved to a Paramour, is bought back by the Prophet—3:2. She for a Season is denied Honors of a Wife to any Man—3:3. During same time Hosea is Husband to no Woman—3:3. So Israel for a time shall be denied King and God—3:4. Later Israel will return to Jehovah—3:5.

BOOK OF HOSEA.—Part First relates Account of Prophet's Household and Application to Israel—Chaps. 1-3.

Part Second contains Rebukes, Threats and Promises for Israel—Chaps. 4-14. Judah is mentioned, but incidentally—1:1, 11; 4:15; 5:5, 13; 6:4; 12:2.

Chief Theme is Israel's Sin—4:1, 2, 8-18; 5:3-5; 6:7-10; 7:3-7; 9:9, 10, 15; 10:9, 10, 13; 12:7; 13:2, 12.

Chief Punishments shall be: Devastation of the Country—4:3; 5:7, 9, 10; 7:8, 10; 14. Burning of Cities—8:14. Captivity—9:6, 17; 11:11. Bereavement—9:12, 16. Cruel Death—13:14, 16.

Chief Promises are Prosperity—1:10, 11; 2:21, 22; 14:5-7. Acceptance with God—1:10; 2:1, 23; 14:4. Return from Captivity—11:10, 11.

"captivity unto" Kir, saith Jehōvāh.

6 Thus saith Je-hōvāh: For three transgressions of Gāzā, yea, for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof;
because they carried away captive the whole people, to deliver them up to Ēdōm. 7
But I will send a fire on the wall of Gāzā, and it shall devour the palaces thereof. 8
And I will cut off the inhabitant from Āshdōd, and him that holdeth the sceptre from Āshkēlōn; and I will turn my hand against Ēk'rōn; and the remnant of the Philistines shall perish, saith the Lord Je-hōvāh.

9 Thus saith Je-hōvāh:
For three transgressions of Tyre, yea, for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because they delivered up the whole people to Ēdōm, and remembered not the brotherly covenant. 10
But I will send a fire on the wall of Tyre, and it shall devour the palaces thereof.

11 Thus saith Je-hōvāh: For three transgressions of Ēdōm,
yea, for four, I will not turn

* OBADIAH THE PROPHET.—Although this Name occurs
Several Times in the Old Testament (I Ki. 18:3; I Chr. 9:16; 3:25; 8:38; 27:12; et al.), this Prophet is not elsewhere mentioned.—V. 1. Probably lived in Judah.—V. 11. His Time Uncertain, perhaps when Jerusalem was taken by Nebuchad-nessar (586 B.C.)—V. 11

Style: Poetic (vs. 1-7 are Poetry) and Minatory—Vs. 8-16, 18, 19. The Poetical Portion is almost identical with Jer.
49:14-18.

* JONAH THE PROPHET.—He was the Son of Amittai; Family otherwise unknown—Jonah 1:1; II Ki. 14:25. Taken from the Town of Gath-hepher in Tribe of Zebulun—II Ki. 14:25;
cf. Josh. 19:10, 13.

Prophe<sup>1</sup>sied for Israel under Jeroboam II—II Ki. 14:24, 25.
Here against Nineveh—Jonah 1:2; 3:2-4.

An Unwilling Missionary to Nineveh—1:2, 3; and displeased that the City was spared on Repentance—3:10; 4:11.
Nineveh under Sbalmaneser II had defeated Ahab and forced Jehu to pay Tribute (see Shal. Inscriptions), and hence was Israel's Enemy.

Jonah tried to flee from Jehovah to Tarshish in Spain—1:3.
Caught in a Storm, was thrown into the Sea—1:4-15. Taken up by a Fish, he was carried Ashore—1:17; 2:10; Mt. 12:39, 40. He went and preached in Nineveh and the People, repenting, were saved—3:1-10. By the Value of a Gourd God taught him the Value of Human Beings—4:6-11.

In Disposition, Jonah seems to have been hasty, petulant and clamorous—1:3; 4:1-3, 8, 9.

BOOK OF JONAH.—Has One Theme: Jonah's Mission to Nineveh—1:1; 3:2-4. Has One Strong Contrast: between Jonah's Thought and God's Thought—1:2-4; 3:10; 4:1-11.
Has One Great Lesson: the Value of all Men—4:10, 11.

In Composition, the Book is a Story with one Inserted Poem—2:2-9. It is marked with Vividness and Brief, Detailed Scenes—1:4-16; 2:1-10; 3:4-10; 4:1-11.

Lessons to Jonah.—The Universality of Divine Love. The Presence of Jehovah cannot be escaped—1:3-17. The Servant of Jehovah must obey—1:12; 3:1-3. Anger with God is Vanity—4:1-11. There is Worth even among the Heathen
—3:5-10; 4:11.

Lessons to Sailors.—Jehovah is God of the Sea—1:9-16.

Lessons to Heathen.—Jehovah condemns Sin in All Nations—3:4-8; but he is merciful to the Penitent—3:9, 10.

Jō'nāh. 8 Then said they unto him, "Tell us, we pray thee, for whose cause this evil is upon us; what is thine occupation? and whence comest thou? what is thy country? and of what people art thou? 9 And he said unto them, I am a Hebrew; and I fear Jē-hō'vāh, the God of heaven, who hath made the sea and the dry land. 10 Then were the men exceedingly afraid, and said unto him, What is this that thou hast done? For the men knew that he was fleeing from the presence of Jē-hō'vāh, because he had told them.

11 Then said they unto him, What shall we do unto thee, that the sea may be calm unto us? for the sea grew more and more tempestuous. 12 And he said unto them, Take me up, and cast me forth into the sea; so shall the sea be calm unto you: for I know that for my sake this great tempest is upon you. 13 Nevertheless the men rowed hard to get them back to the land; but they could not: for the sea grew more and more tempestuous against them. 14 Wherefore they cried unto Jē-hō'vāh, and said, We beseech thee, O Jē-hō'vāh, we beseech thee, let us not perish for this man's life, and lay not upon us innocent blood; for

17 And Jē-hō'vāh prepared a great fish to swallow up Jō'nāh; and Jō'nāh was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights. 1 Then Jō'nāh prayed unto Jē-hō'vāh his God out of the fish's belly. 2 And he said,

"I was called by reason of mine affliction unto Jē-hō'vāh, And he answered me; Out of the belly of She'ōl cried I, And thou heardest my voice.

The weeds were wrapped about my <sup>a</sup> head.
6 I <sup>b</sup> went down to the bottoms of the <sup>c</sup> mountains;
The <sup>d</sup> earth with its <sup>e</sup> bars closed upon me for ever:
Yet hast thou <sup>f</sup> brought up my <sup>g</sup> life from <sup>h</sup> the pit, O <sup>i</sup> Je-hō-vāh my God.
7 When my <sup>j</sup> soul <sup>k</sup> fainted within me, I <sup>l</sup> no remem-bered Je-hō-vāh;

Jē-hō'vāh of hosts hath spoken it. 5 For all the peoples <sup>a</sup> walk every one in the <sup>c</sup> name of his <sup>b</sup> god; and <sup>e</sup> we will walk in the name of <sup>f</sup> Jē-hō'vāh our God for ever and ever.

6 In that <sup>h</sup> day, <sup>i</sup> saith Jē-hō'vāh, will I <sup>j</sup> assemble that which is <sup>k</sup> lame, and I will gather <sup>m</sup> that which is driven away, and that which I have <sup>n</sup> afflicted; 7 and I will make that which was lame a <sup>p</sup> remnant, and that which was cast far off a <sup>q</sup> strong nation: and <sup>r</sup> Jē-hō'vāh will reign over them in <sup>s</sup> mount <sup>t</sup> Zi'ōn from henceforth even for ever. 8 And thou, O <sup>u</sup> tower of <sup>v</sup> the <sup>w</sup> flock, <sup>x</sup> the <sup>y</sup> hill of the <sup>z</sup> daughter of Zi'ōn, unto thee shall it come, yea, the <sup>a</sup> former dominion shall come, the kingdom of the daughter of <sup>b</sup> Jē-ru'sā-lēm.

9 Now why dost thou <sup>c</sup> cry out aloud? Is there no <sup>d</sup> king in thee, is thy <sup>e</sup> counsellor perished, that pangs have taken hold of thee as of a <sup>f</sup> woman in <sup>g</sup> travail? 10 <sup>h</sup> Be in <sup>i</sup> pain, and <sup>j</sup> labor to bring forth, O daughter of Zi'ōn, like a woman in travail; for <sup>k</sup> now

* FORTIFICATION.—The earliest cities of Palestine were usually planted on the spur of a mountain, the builders thus availing themselves of the steep rock-faces as the first line of defence. "The walls of brick or stone, supplied by art, and supplementing the work of nature, followed the course of the ridge, the rock itself being frequently cut away to form artificial scarps."

Walls.—These fortifying walls were the distinguishing feature of the city, villages being without walls, and having merely a watch-tower—Deut. 3:4, 5; II Sam. 20:15; I Ki.

and said, <sup>d</sup> "Write the <sup>e</sup> vision, and make it plain upon <sup>f</sup> tablets, that he may run that readeth
it. 3 For the vision is yet for the <sup>h</sup> appointed time, and it <sup>1</sup> hasteth toward the end, and it shall <sup>k</sup> not lie: though it tarry, <sup>l</sup> wait for it; because it will <sup>m</sup> surely come, it will not delay.

4 Behold, his <sup>n</sup> soul is <sup>o</sup> puffed up, it is not <sup>2</sup> upright in him;

him all peoples. 6 Shall not all these <sup>l</sup> take up a <sup>m</sup> parable

In the midst of the years make it known;
In wrath remember mercy.
3 God came from Tē'mān, And the Holy One from mount Pā'rān. [Sē'lāh His glory covered the heavens, And the earth was full of his praise.
4 And his brightness was as the light; He had rays coming forth from his hand; And there was the hiding of his power.
5 Before him went the pestilence, And fiery bolts went forth at his feet.
6 He stood, and measured the earth;

1 The word of Jē-hō'vāh which came unto *Zēph-ā-nī'āh the son of Cū'shī, the son of Gēd-ā-lī'āh, the son of Ām-ā-rī'āh, the son of Hēz-ē-kī'āh, in the days of Jō-sī'āh the son of Ā'mōn, king of Jū'dāh.

2 I will utterly consume all things from off the face of the ground, saith Jē-hō'vāh.

3 I will consume man and beast; I will consume the birds of the heavens, and the fishes of the sea, and the stumblingblocks with the wicked; and I will cut off man from off the face of the ground, saith Jē-hō'vāh. 4 And I will stretch out my hand upon Jū'dāh, and upon all the inhabitants of Jē-ru'sa-lēm; and I will cut off the remnant of Bā'āl from this place, and the name of the Chēm'ā-rīm with the priests; 5 and them that worship the host of heaven upon the housetops; and them that worship, that swear to Jē-hō'vāh and swear by Māl'eām; 6 and them that are turned back from following Jē-hō'vāh; and those that have not sought Jē-hō'vāh, nor inquired after him. 7 Hold thy peace at the presence of the Lord Jē-hō'vāh; for the day of Jē-hō'vāh is at hand: for Jē-hō'vāh hath prepared a sacrifice, he hath consecrated his guests. 8 And it shall come to pass in the ROTH.; bow down, Var. swear—Add. * HAGGAI THE PROPHET.—No Personal History in Title of the Book.—Hag. 1:1.

Time: In Second Year of Darius (520 B.C.)—1:1, 15; 2:1, 10.

Occasion: When Second Temple should be built—1:2-4, 8, 9, 14.

Style: Argumentative—1:4-6, 9-11; 2:11-14. Hortatory—1:7, 8, 13; 2:4, 5. Optimistic—2:6-9, 19, 21-23. Historical and Oracular (History mingled with Divine Messages)—1:1-5, and throughout.

<sup>f</sup> sixth <sup>g</sup> month, in the <sup>h</sup> first <sup>i</sup> day of the month, came the <sup>j</sup> word of Jē-hō'vāh by * Hāg'gāi the
the <sup>n</sup> son of Shē-āl'ī-tē-ēl, <sup>o</sup> <sup>p</sup> <sup>q</sup> governor of <sup>r</sup> Jū'dāh, and to
ā-dāk, the <sup>u</sup> high priest, saying, 2 Thus speaketh Jē-hō'vāh of hosts, saying, This people say, <sup>v</sup> It is not the time for us to come,
the time for Jē-hō'vāh's <sup>w</sup> house to be built. 3 Then came the word of Jē-hō'vāh by Hāg'gāi the prophet, saying, 4 Is it a time for you yourselves to dwell in your ceiled <sup>x</sup> houses, while this house <sup>y</sup> <sup>z</sup> lieth waste? 5
Now therefore thus saith Jē-hō' vāh of hosts: <sup>2</sup> Consider your Return unto me, and I will return unto you, saith Jē-hō-vāh of hosts. But ye say, Wherein shall we return? 8 Will a man rob God? yet ye rob me. But ye say, Wherein have we robbed thee? In tithes and offerings. 9 Ye are cursed with the curse; for ye rob me, even this whole nation. 10 Bring ye the whole tithe into the storehouse, that there may be food in my house, and prove me now herewith, saith Jē-hō-vāh of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it. 11 And I will rebuke the devourer for your sakes, and he shall not destroy the fruits of your ground; neither shall your vine cast its fruit before the time in the field, saith Jē-hō-vāh of hosts. 12 And all nations shall call you happy; for ye shall be a delightsome land, saith Jē-hō-vāh of hosts.

13 Your words have been stout against me, saith Jē-hō-vāh. Yet ye say, What have we spoken against thee? 14 Ye have said, It is vain to serve God; and what profit is it that we have kept his charge, and

EXTRACTS FROM THE

Preface to the American Standard Version

COPYRIGHT, 1901, BY THOMAS NELSON AND SONS

This edition of the Revised New Testament of 1881 embodies a purpose entertained by many members of the American Revision Committee almost from the publication of the work. The list of passages in which the New Testament Company dissented from the decisions of their English associates, when it was transmitted to them, bore the heading, "The American New Testament Revision Company, having in many cases yielded their preference for certain readings and renderings, present the following instances in which they differ from the English Company, as in their view of sufficient importance to be appended to the revision, in accordance with an understanding between the Companies."

The knowledge of the existence of these suppressed deviations naturally stirred a desire that they should be made accessible to at least the American public. This desire, especially on the part of those whose generous interest in the work from its inception had enabled the American revisers to meet the pecuniary outlay its preparation involved, they were not unwilling to gratify. The obligation they felt, however, to guard as far as they might the purity and integrity of the version, led them to pledge their support for fourteen years to the editions issued by the University Presses of Oxford and Cambridge. But the reiterated suggestion to those Presses to publish an edition especially for American readers not having met with favor, they acceded to the overtures of the Messrs. Nelson and engaged in preparing gratuitously the desired edition, to be issued when the expiration of the period specified should open the way for its honorable publication. The publishers, on their part, agreed to protect the version in its integrity, and to sell the book at a price not exceeding a fair profit on its cost.

In the preparation of this edition no attempt has been made to preserve a full record of the other readings and renderings than those that appeared in the work as published in 1881 which were preferred by the American revisers. The Appendix of that edition, however, was not only hastily compiled under pressure from the University Presses, but its necessarily limited compass compelled, as the original heading intimated, the exclusion of many suggestions that the American Company held to be of interest and importance. These, amounting in the aggregate to a considerable number, have been incorporated in the present edition. The opportunity has been taken also to introduce not a few alterations, individually of slight importance, yet as a body contributing decidedly to the perfection of the work. But the survivors of the New Testament Company have not felt at liberty to make new changes of moment which were not favorably passed upon by their associates at one stage or another of the original preparation of the work.

Respecting details, but little need be added to the ample statements made in the Preface prefixed to the work on its first appearance.

In the delicate matter of rendering the names of the several coins that occur in the New Testament, we have departed somewhat from our English brethren. For the Greek λεπτόν the term "mite" has been retained, and for κοδράντης the rendering "farthing" (see Mk. xii. 42). But δραχμὴν has been translated "penny" (Matt. x. 29; Lk. xii. 6); while in thirteen out of the sixteen instances where in the edition of 1881 the Greek δηνάριον was represented by this English word, the term "shilling" has been substituted, not only as corresponding more nearly to the coin's relative value, but also because "penny," according to its modern use, is in some cases highly inappropriate (see Matt. xx. 2; Lk. x. 35; Rev. vi. 6). In the three remaining instances (Matt. xxii. 19; Mk. xii. 15; Lk. xx. 24), the Greek name of the coin has been introduced, in order to meet the obvious requirement of the context. Where the English value of coins is given in the margin, we have added the equivalents in our national currency; but in the case of the talent (Matt. xviii. 24) what is believed to be a more accurate valuation has been given.

In formal particulars, this new edition will show but slight and infrequent deviations from its predecessor. The division of the text into paragraphs in that edition has not been often departed from; and then chiefly in cases where the same matter is found in more than one of the Gospels, and hence uniformity of division seemed desirable. Further, in the Epistles and the Revelation the more decided transitions to a new topic have been indicated by leaving a line blank. The somewhat ponderous and peculiar system of punctuation of the original edition has been in the main adhered to; although, pursuant to the principle there followed, a comma has here and there been dropped which seemed likely to obstruct the reader, and the gradations of thought have been occasionally indicated more distinctly by substituting a semicolon for the overworked colon. The titles of the books, which in the former edition were given as printed in 1611, have been somewhat abbreviated, at the dictate of convenience, and agreeably to usage, ancient as well as modern. They have been altered only in the few instances where the former heading was erroneous (as in the case of the Epistle to the Hebrews), or apt to mislead (as in the case of the Book of Acts), or hardly intelligible to the ordinary reader (as the "General" in the heading of some of the shorter Epistles), or founded in a misapprehension (as in the case of "Saint" prefixed to the names of the Evangelists). Moreover, the alternate title of the New Testament, and the mode of printing the headings of the Four Evangelists' narratives, are designed to recall to mind the inherent signification and primitive use of the terms "Testament" (compare Hebrews ix. 15 f.) and "Gospel." In the Book of Revelation, also, the "Glorias," "Trisagias," etc., have been marked typographically.

In dealing with the Language, the American revisers have endeavored to act with becoming deference and reserve. A few archaisms, such as "how that," "for to," "the which," "howbeit," etc., which are becoming uncouth to a modern ear, have been generally although not invariably discarded. Not a few of the instances of the superfluous use of "do" and "did" as auxiliaries, of "that" as equivalent to "that which," and the like, have also been removed; and current usage has been recognized in the case of forms which King James's revision employed indiscriminately, as "beside" and "besides" (see Mk. iii. 21; 2 Cor. v. 13). But in making these and other slight changes, the American editors have not forgotten that they were dealing with a venerable monument of English usage, and have been careful not to obliterate the traces of its historic origin and descent.

Notwithstanding the caution—as wise perhaps as prudent—which led the English Committee wholly to omit the headings of chapters and pages, and in spite of the disfavor which has been the fate of many attempts to furnish them from the days of Dr. Blayney, who, with four assistants, produced a set which speedily fell into neglect, it has been deemed best to equip the present edition with running headlines, which may serve in some sort instead of a detailed Table of Contents, and as landmarks to a reader familiar with the text. In preparing them it has been the constant aim to avoid as far as possible all pre-commitments, whether doctrinal or exegetical; and with this object in view, the forms of statement employed have been drawn in the main from the Biblical text.

It is not superfluous to mention expressly the fact that in this edition the variant readings and renderings prepared by the American Revision Committee are placed in the margin of the pages, but in as close juxtaposition as possible with the passages to which they relate. The reader's attention is thereby drawn to the circumstance that some degree of uncertainty still cleaves, in the judgment of scholars, either to the text of the passage before him, or to its translation, or to both. Accordingly, when he remembers that, by the rule of procedure which the Committee followed, the translation of 1611 held its place in every instance until an alteration commanded the votes of two-thirds of the revisers, it will become evident to him that a rendering given in the margin may have commanded itself to a majority, while still falling short of the degree of approval necessary to enable it to supplant the text. It is known that this was the case in a considerable number of instances, of which the established term "Comforter" as the appellation of the Holy Spirit in the fourteenth chapter of the Gospel of John is a notable representative.

The present volume, it is believed, will on the one hand bring a plain reader more closely into contact with the exact thought of the sacred writers than any version now current in Christendom, and on the other hand prove itself especially serviceable to students of the Word. In this belief the editors bid it anew God-speed, and in the realization of this desired result they will find their all-sufficient reward.

The Book of Revelations is saturated with the Old Testament from beginning to end, there being nearly four hundred references to thoughts and events mentioned in the Law, the Prophets, and the Writings. Too numerous to tabulate in the space at command, the student will find ample marginal references to fasten each such incident in its proper Old-Testament locality.

* GENEALOGIES.—The Hebrews were a covenant people whose religion and belongings led them to trace their descent from Abraham. To them belonged the Messianic Hope—Gen. 12:3. A system of land tenure—Num. 36:7; I Ki. 21:3. Of priesthood and kingship bound up with family succession—Ex. 29:9; Ps. 89:3, 4. These begot a concern for genealogies, which shows itself by a recurring formula ("these are the generations") running throughout Genesis—Gen. 2:4; 5:1; 6:9; 10:1; 11:10; 11:27; 25:12, 19; 36:1. The genealogy of kings was viewed as of the first importance, e. g. David—I Chr. ch. 24. Genealogy of priests—I Chr. 9:1; II Chr. 31:16-19; Neh. 12:22, 23. Genealogies satisfied interest regarding the populating of the earth—Gen. ch. 5; I Chr. 1:1. The re-populating after flood—Gen. ch. 10; I Chr. ch. 1. The twelve tribes—I Chr. chs. 2-5. Genealogies are sometimes regressive—I Chr. 6:33-43; Ezra 7:1-5. And sometimes progressive—Ruth 4:18-22; I Chr. ch. 3. Females are named in them when something remarkable occurs, or a land title is involved—Gen. 11:29; 22:23; 35:23-26; Ex. 6:23; Num. 26:33; I Chr. 2:4, 16.

GENEALOGIES OF JESUS.

1. The genealogy given in Matthew is the genealogy of Joseph, the reputed father of Jesus, his father in the eyes of the law. The genealogy given in Luke is the genealogy of Mary, the mother of Jesus, and is the human genealogy of Jesus Christ in actual fact. The Gospel of Matthew was written for Jews. All through it Joseph is prominent, Mary is scarcely mentioned. In Luke, on the other hand, Mary is the chief personage in the whole account of the Saviour's conception and birth. Joseph is brought in only incidentally and because he was Mary's husband. In all of this, of course, there is a deep significance.

2. In Matthew, Jesus appears as the Messiah. In Luke He appears as "the Son of Man," our Brother and Redeemer, who belongs to the whole race and claims kindred with all kinds and conditions of men. So in Matthew, the genealogy descends from Abraham to Joseph and Jesus, because all the predictions and promises touching the Messiah are fulfilled in Him. But in Luke the genealogy ascends from Jesus to Adam, because the genealogy is being traced back to the head of the whole race, and shows the relation of the Second Adam to the First.

3. Joseph's line is the strictly royal line from David to Joseph. In Luke, though the line of descent is from David, it is not the royal line. In this Jesus is descended from David through Nathan, David's son indeed, but not in the royal line, and the list follows a line quite distinct from the royal line.

4. The Messiah, according to prediction, was to be the actual son of David according to the flesh (II Sam. 7:12-19; Ps. 89:3, 4, 34-37; 132:11; Acts 2:30; 13:22, 23; Rom. 1:3; II Tim. 2:8). These prophecies are fulfilled by Jesus being the Son of Mary, who was a lineal descendant of David, though not in the royal line. Joseph, who was of the royal line, was not his father according to the flesh, but was his father in the eyes of the law.

5. Mary was a descendant of David through her father, Heli. It is true that Luke 2:23 says that Joseph was the son of Heli. The simple explanation of this is that, Mary being a woman, her name according to Jewish usage could not come into the genealogy, males alone forming the line, so Joseph's name is introduced in the place of Mary's, he being Mary's husband, Heli was his father-in-law and so Joseph is called the son of Heli, and the line thus completed. While Joseph was son-in-law of Heli, according to the flesh he was in actual fact the son of Jacob (Matt. 1:16).

6. Two genealogies are absolutely necessary to trace the lineage of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, the one the royal and legal, the other the natural and literal, and these two genealogies we find, the legal and royal in Matthew's Gospel, the Gospel of law and kingship; the natural and literal in Luke's, the Gospel of humanity.

7. We are told in Jer. 22:30 any descendant of Jeconiah could not come to the throne of David, and Joseph was of this line, and while Joseph's genealogy furnishes the royal line for Jesus, his son before the law, nevertheless Jeremiah's prediction is fulfilled to the very letter, for Jesus, strictly speaking, was not Joseph's descendant and therefore was not of the seed of Jeconiah. If Jesus had been the son of Joseph in reality, He could not have come to the throne, but He is Mary's son through Nathan, and can come to the throne legally by her marrying Joseph and so clearing His way legally to it.

As we study these two genealogies of Jesus carefully and read them in the light of Old Testament prediction, we find that, so far from constituting a reason for doubting the accuracy of the Bible, they are rather a confirmation of the minutest accuracy of that Book. It is amazing how one part of the Bible fits into another part when we study it thus minutely. We need no longer stumble over the fact of there being two genealogies, but discover and rejoice in the deep meaning in the fact that there are two genealogies.—From R. A. Pharisee nor a disciple of John the Baptist. Called to follow Jesus while at the custom-house.—Mt. 9:9; Mk. 2:14; Lu. 5:27. Gave up office and wealth for Jesus.—Lu. 5:28.

Gave Jesus a Great Feast in Gratitude.—Mt. 9:10; Mk. 2:15; Lu. 5:29. Invited many of his old friends ("publicans and sinners") to the feast.—Mt. 9:10, etc. Other disciples of Jesus there also.—Mt. 9:10. Many of the publicans and sinners led to follow Jesus.—Mk. 2:15. Pharisees and their scribes uninvited.—Mt. 9:11; Mk. 2:16; Lu. 5:30. Many complain to Christ's disciples about this social fellowship of Jesus with publicans and sinners.—Mt. 9:11; Mk. 2:16; Lu. 5:30. Jesus justifies it, and thus his call of Matthew the publican.—Mt. 9:12 f; Mk. 2:17; Lu. 5:31 f.

Chosen as one of the Twelve Apostles.—Mt. 10:3; Mk. 3:18; Lu. 6:15; Acts 1:13.

Always linked in the Gospel Lists with Thomas (Twin).—Either as his twin brother or as more probably his friend.—Mt. 10:3 (after Thomas). In Mk. 3:18 and Lu. 6:15 before Thomas. But in Acts 1:13 Bartholomew and Matthew (and in this order) are joined together.

Traditions.—Eusebius (H. E. III. 24) mentions that he preached to Hebrews in Judea, and before leaving wrote the Gospel—Heb. (Aramaic) that bears his name (Greek). Other traditions connect his name with Ethiopia, Macedonia, Persia.

Date of Gospel of Matthew not known.—Probably between Mark and Luke, and may be as early as A. D. 60. Exact relation of the Aramaic Matthew and Greek Matthew not known. Probably a book of logia or sayings of Jesus preceded the present Matthew.

CHARACTERISTICS OF THE GOSPEL OF MATTHEW:

Evidently written by a Jew.—This is plain from the absence of explanation of Jewish customs. Cf. Mk. 7:2-5. Lu. 2:4-13 explains topography of Judea, but not so Matthew.—John 4:4, 10, likewise explains enmity between Jews and Samaritans. Author is much interested also in Jewish origin and aspect of Christianity, though willing to tell the fate of the Jewish people.—Mt. 21:43.

Tone Anti-Pharisaic.—This appears throughout and in particular in Chap. 23, which he alone reports. Here Jesus is represented as denouncing the Pharisees and Scribes with much vehemence. Cf. also the debate in the temple in Mk., Chaps. 21 and 22. As we know, publicans and Pharisees were very antagonistic.

Conceals his Identity.—The name of Matthew occurs in the Gospel only twice.—Mt. 9:9; 10:3. Does not hesitate to call himself a hated publican in Mt. 10:3.

Style Impersonal.—As a methodical business man, tax collector and perhaps bookkeeper, one would expect little that is distinctive in his style. Some verbal peculiarities will be noted later.

Familiarity with Money.—Mentioned more frequently than in Mk. and Lu. Cf. Luckock's "Characteristics of the Gospels," page 33. Three kinds of money.—Mt. 10:9. Gives two parables of talents not elsewhere found.—Mt. 18:23-35; 25:14-30. Cf. Parable of pounds.—Lu. 19:11-27.

For Jews.—This is plain from the number of points of view. His use of O. T. quotations, to show that Jesus was the promised Messiah of the O. T., the Abrahamic genealogy of Jesus, the giving of the Sermon on the Mount, where the teaching of Christ is related to that of the O. T., these and other points prove it. The readers are supposed to be familiar with Jewish customs.—Mt. 15:1 f; 27:62. This is assumed, as in Mt. 15:2. Has Jewish estimate of value of dreams—1:20; 2:13. He has "Father in Heaven" 15 times, while Mk. has it only twice, and Lu. none. He calls Jerusalem the "Holy City" twice—4:5; 27:53. Not an objective narrative: The book is written with a purpose and selects material to prove that purpose. He combines the words and the deeds of Jesus. Sometimes he alternates. Thus, Deeds—Chap. 4. Words—Chap. 5-7. Deeds—Chaps. 8 and 9. Words—Chaps. 10 and 11:18, etc. Probably the author used a book of sayings of Jesus and marks objective narratives with extra touches of his own from personal knowledge.

Genealogy of Jesus.—As a Jew, and for the Jews he begins (Mt. 1:1-17) his book with a genealogy. Thus he shows that Jesus was a descendant of David (legally through Joseph his reputed father) as the Messiah must be (the Son of David)—Mt. 21:9. He began with Abraham, the father of the Jewish people. In an appeal to Jesus this matter was important.

Conception of Jesus.—He is the Jewish Messiah—1:1-17. Begotten of the Holy Spirit—1:18. Born of the Virgin Mary—1:18, 25; 2:1. As a Babe, worshipped by the Wise Men from the East—2:2, 11. Acknowledged as the Son of God, by the Father at his Baptism—3:17. His Sonship challenged by the Devil—4:1, 6. The Demons recognize his Divine Sonship—8:29. He claims to be the Son of God in a special sense—11:25-27. His favorite term for Himself is the Son of Man—Cf. 12:8, 32 etc. But this Son of Man has a Supernatural Aspect as Judge with Glory and Power—16:28; 19:28; 24:30; 25:31; 26:64. He was indeed God with us—1:23. He definitely claimed to his Disciples to be the Messiah—16:16-20. Yet he foretold His Death at the Hands of the Jewish Rulers and rebuked Peter for not understanding—16:21-23. The Father identified Him as His Son on the Mount of Transfiguration—17:5. He foresaw His Death on the Cross as a Ransom for many—20:10, 28. He formally announced Himself as the King Messiah by the Triumphant Entry—21:1-9. They hailed Him as Prophet—21:11. He was thus Prophet, Priest and King as the Son of David, yet David called Him Lord (Humanity and Deity)—22:42-45. Claimed to be Judge over Jerusalem and the whole World—24 and 25. Shed His Blood for the Remission of Sins as symbolized by the Cup in the Lord's Supper—26:28. Claimed to be the Christ, the Son of God, on Oath before Caiaphas—26:63 f. Claimed Power of Supreme Judge over Caiaphas and the Sanhedrin—26:64. Rose from the Dead in Proof of His Claim to be the Son of God, the Messiah—28:9 f. Appeared to the Disciples and commanded them to take the World for Him away from the Devil—28:16-20. This in brief is a sketch of Matthew's picture of Jesus the Christ.

Kingdom of Heaven.—This is Matthew's favorite expression, occurring 32 times and nowhere else in the Gospel—3:2.

4:17; 5:3, 10, 19, 20, 7:21; 8:11; 10:7; 11:11, 12; 13:11, 24, 31, 33, 44, 45, 47, 52; 16:19; 18:1, 3, 4, 23; 20:1; 22:2; 23:14, 25:1. The Phrase Kingdom of God appears in Mt. 4 Times—12:28; 19:24; 21:31, 43. But Mark uses it 14 Times, Luke 34 Times (8 more in Acts), Paul 8, John 2 (Rev. one more). Cf. Hawkins' "Horae Synopticae," page 25. But this is not all, for Matthew also has the expression, "Kingdom of my Father" (18:29), "Thy Kingdom" (6:10; 20:21), "His Kingdom" (26:28, referring to Himself), "The Kingdom of their Father" (13:43), "His Kingdom (13:41 referring to the Father. Cf. 6:33), and just "The Kingdom" (13:38, Sons of the Kingdom), "Gospel of the Kingdom" (4:23; 9:35; 24:14), "The Word of the Kingdom" (13:19). The term Kingdom itself has a Jewish Connotation and varies in Exact Shading from Kingdomship or Sovereignty (16:28), Territory (4:8), Organization (12:25), Subjects (19:14), Reign (4:17). It is regarded as already present (4:17; 10:7; 12:28; 13:38), but still to come in greater power and to have a future consummation (13:31, 41; 20:21; 25:34; 26:29). The Phrase, "Kingdom of Heaven," was practically the same as "Kingdom of God," and was probably used so much out of deference to Jewish sentiment concerning avoidance of the name of Deity. It accented also the idea that it was not a temporal earthly Kingdom, but an inward spiritual growth.

Old Testament Quotations.—These are more frequent in Matthew than in the other Gospels, though, as a matter of fact, Mt. is the longest Gospel. There are about 65 in Mt. and 43 in Lu. In Mt. 43 are direct citations while only 19 are so in Lu. Matthew, himself, apart from the discourses of Jesus, makes 10 quotations from the O. T. Mark, only one. These agree less closely with the Septuagint than the others in Mt. Cf. Hawkins' "Horae Synopticae," page 123. These are 1:23; 2:15, 18, 23; 4:15 f.; 8:17; 12:18-21; 13:35; 21:5; 27:9 f. These in particular Mt. uses, the expression "that it might be fulfilled" (1:22); as "there was fulfilled" (2:17); to show how in the Life of Jesus was fulfilled the Messianic hope of Israel. The other Quotations in Mt. are 2:6 (by the Scribes); 3:3, 17; 4:4, 6, 7, 10; 5:4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 21, 27, 31, 33, 43; 9:13; 11:10, 23; 12:7, 13:32; 15:4, 8, 9; 16:27; 17:5; 18:16; 19:4, 5, 18, 19, 26; 21:9, 13, 16, 33, 42, 44; 22:24, 32, 37, 39, 44; 23:38; 24:15, 21, 29, 30; 26:31, 64; 27:35, 46. A number of these are not quoted in the other Gospels, especially those in the Sermon on the Mount. Sermon on the Mount: This is one of the outstanding peculiarities of the Gospel of Mt. Chaps. 5-7. In Lu. 6:17-49 we find what is probably a briefer report of the same sermon. But a large section of the discourse (Mt. 5:13; 6:34) appears in Mt. alone, though certain phrases in Mt. 6:19-34 do reappear in Lu. 12:22-34. But the famous passage in Mt. 5:17-42, where the Teachings of Jesus is set over against that of the O. T. and the current teaching, is not reported in Luke. Mt. alone gives this section which bore so vitally upon the Jewish problem—Lu. 6:27-36 does contain the passage about "love one's enemies" in even a fuller form than in Mt. 5:43-48.

Parables.—Mt. has 2 groups of Parables, one—Mt. Chap. 13, the other in 24:32; 25:46. Ten of these occur only in Mt., viz.: The Tares—13:24-30, 36-43. The Hid Treasure—13:44. The Net—13:47-50. The Pearl—13:45 f. The Unmerciful Servant—18:21-35. The Laborers in the Vineyard—20:1-16. The Two Sons—22:1-14. The Ten Virgins—25:1-13. The Talents—25:14-30. The Parables in Mt. deal with the Kingdom.

Extended Discourses of Jesus.—Besides the Sermon on the Mount and the extended Parables, there are other addresses of Jesus in this Gospel not in the other Gospels. In particular may be noted the Gracious Invitation in 11:28-30, the Prophecy of Simon Peter in 16:17-19; the Exhortation about Forgiveness in 18:15-20; the Denunciation of the Scribes and the Pharisees in Chap. 23; the Picture of the Judgment in 25:31-46; the Great Commission in 28:16-20. Cf. Vincent's "Word Studies," Vol. I, p. 5. Hence in Mt. special emphasis is given to the Teaching of Jesus.

Topical Arrangement.—In Mk. and Lu. the narratives follow in general chronological order, as is also true of John's Gospel. But this is not always true of Mt. The Sermon on the Mount comes earlier than it probably was delivered as a specimen discourse. Then in Chaps. 8 and 9 we have a group of Miracles, as in Chap. 13 we find a group of Parables. The same system runs through the most of the Gospels.

Eschatology.—At many points in the Gospel we have accent put upon the eschatological aspects of the ministry of the Messiah. To some extent this is in harmony with the current Jewish Apocalyptic teaching, but it is free from the merely temporal aspects. Particularly in Chaps. 24 and 25 do we have a Christian Apocalypse (cf. the Book of Revelation), spoken by Jesus in view of His own death and of the destruction of Jerusalem, with the end of the world as the further background. Mt. gives this eschatological discourse at much greater length than Mk. and Lu., and Chap. 25 occurs nowhere else.

World Outlook.—While the Gospel is Jewish in point of view, it is yet distinctively Christian and cosmopolitan. The essential moral teaching of the O. T. is carried further by Jesus from the mere external to the very Spirit and Life (Chaps. 5 and 6). But Mt. is not blind to the larger outlook. He records the Worship of the Babe at Bethlehem by the Magi—2:11. Christ's Praise of a Gentile's Faith—8:10 f. Christ's Visit to Heathen Territory—15:28. The Threat of taking the Kingdom away from the Jews—21:43. The Commission to carry the Gospel to all the World—28:19.

Special Phrases.—Some of these have already been discussed, such as Kingdom of Heaven, Father in Heaven, References to Money, etc. Other characteristic expressions may be noted, like the frequent use of "Thy," "Our (your) Father," "Fulfill" of Scriptures, "The Evil One Appeared," "Son of David," "And Behold," "To Swear by, etc."

Doctrine of the Messiah.—The long-promised Messiah is at hand—Mt. 3:3; Mk. 1:2 f.; Lu. 3:4-6. Comes for judgment—Mt. 3:10-12; Mk. 1:8; Lu. 3:9, 16 f. A double baptism of the Holy Spirit and of fire—Mt. 3:11; Lu. 3:16. The Passover Lamb bearing the sin of the world—John 1:29, 36. The Son of God—John 1:34. Jesus the true Messiah—Mt. 3:14; John 1:33; 3:28. The Bridegroom—John 3:29. His star to increase while John's fades—John 3:29. Already among the Jews, but not recognized by them—John 1:26.

The Holy Spirit.—Taught that the Messiah would baptize with the Holy Spirit—Mt. 3:11; Mk. 1:8; Lu. 3:16; John 1:33. Saw the Holy Spirit descend upon Jesus as a dove out of heaven—John 1:32 f.

* PHARISEES: Name.—Separated people, from Heb. Parash; separated not merely from the Gentiles, but from the common mass of Jews.

Origin.—The exact date is not known. They undoubtedly succeed the Chasidim, or Pious Party, who supported Mattathias in his rebellion against Antiochus Epiphanes, who sought to Hellenize the Jews (B.C. 167). Josephus (Antiquities xiii, v. 9.) traces the Pharisees and Sadducees as distinct parties to the time of Jonathan Maccabeus. But he first calls their names in the reign of John Hyrcanus I (B.C. 135-105).

History.—They strive with the Sadducees for supremacy. John Hyrcanus leaves the Pharisees for the Sadducees. The strife between Alexander Jannæus and the Pharisees is bitter. Salome Alexandra restores the Pharisees to power. The Psalms of Solomon show the hopes of the Pharisees at this time. The Pharisees lose political power, though still represented in the Sanhedrin. They gain and hold popular favor. They survive the destruction of the Temple and Jerusalem. They find power in the synagogue and the Scribes. The Talmud is the expression of Pharisaism, which is still powerful among the Jews. They are at the acme of spiritual power when Jesus comes.

Teachings.—In brief they held to the immortality of the soul, the future judgment, the existence of angels and spirits, the resurrection of the body, the coming of a temporal Messiah. There were many apocalyptic features in their Messianic Kingdom. Hence they often challenge Jesus.

Hypocrisy.—This undue emphasis on the external naturally led to hypocrisy on a large scale. This fact explains the harsh language used about them by John the Baptist (Mt. 3:7) and Jesus—Mt. 5:20; 6:2 f.; 12:31, 34; Mk. 12:40; Lu. 11:39, 44; 16:15; 20:47; Mt. 23:13-36.

Rejected John the Baptist.—Came to hear John preach, but called by him offspring of vipers—Mt. 3:7. Sent a committee to investigate John—John 1:25. For a season rejoiced in his sight—John 5:35. But refused his baptism—Lu. 7:30. Once had fellowship with some disciples of John—Mt. 9:14; Mk. 2:18; Lu. 5:33. Fear the power of John over the people—Mt. 21:26; Mk. 11:32; Lu. 20:6.

Pharisaic Atmosphere.—When Jesus began His work, he was in a world dominated by Pharisaic traditions. This was true of Galilee as well as Judea.

Nobler Types of Pharisees.—Not all Pharisees were of the worst kind. Many of their teachings were true and in harmony with the spirit of the Old Testament. Joseph and Mary, Simeon and Anna, probably reflected the better phase of Pharisaic piety. Gamaliel was neither the worst nor the best.

Bitterness towards Jesus.—The hostility toward Jesus began very early; according to John, at the first visit to Jerusalem during the ministry of Christ—John 2:16 ff. But Nicodemus, a Pharisee, rose above the opposition enough to come to see Jesus by night—John 3:1. They early become jealous of the popularity of Jesus—John 4:1 ff. They dislike His claim to power to forgive sins, and consider it blasphemy—Mt. 9:3; Mk. 2:6 ff.; Lu. 5:21. They murmur at His social freedom with publicans and sinners—Mt. 9:11; Mk. 2:16; Lu. 5:30, 31. They complain that disciples of Jesus do not observe stated fasts—Mt. 9:14; Mk. 2:18; Lu. 5:33. They accuse Christ of working His miracles by the power of the Prince of the demons—Mt. 9:34; 11:19; 12:24 ff.; Mk. 3:22 ff.; Lu. 11:14 ff. They attack Him for violating their rules of sabbath observance—Mt. 12:2; 10; Mk. 2:23; 3:2; Lu. 6:5, 7; 13:14 ff.; John 5:10, 18; 9:13 ff. Join with Herodians to kill Him—Mk. 3:6. With the Sadducees to tempt Him—Mt. 15:1. With Herodians—Mt. 22:15; Mk. 12:13. Sadducees—Mt. 22:23, 34; Mk. 12:18; Lu. 22:27. To entrap Him Pharisees and Sadducees plot his death—Mt. 27:62; John 18:3. They accuse Jesus of blasphemy in claiming equality with God—John 5:18; 10:33. And finally for calling Himself the Messiah, the Son of God—Mt. 26:63 ff.; Mk. 14:61 ff. They ridicule Jesus—John 7:48. They accuse Jesus of being a Samaritan and having a demon—John 8:4, 48. They try to entrap Him on many points like: Eternal Life—Lu. 10:25 ff. Divorce—Mt. 19:3; Mk. 10:2. The Greatest Commandment—Mt. 22:34 ff.; Mk. 12:28 ff. Tribute to Caesar—Mt. 22:15 ff.; Mk. 12:13 ff.; Lu. 22:19 ff. They often ask for a sign from heaven, as in Mt. 12:38; 16:1; Mk. 8:11; John 6:30. They challenge His authority—Mt. 21:23, 45; Mk. 12:27; Lu. 20:1. They mock at Christ on the cross—Mt. 27:41 ff. They put a guard by the tomb of Christ—Mt. 27:62 ff. They agree to bribe the soldiers to conceal the fact of the resurrection of Christ—Mt. 28:13 ff.

Denounced by Jesus.—As hypocrites—Mt. 6:2-18; 15:7; 23:13-29. As not in the Kingdom of Heaven—Mt. 4:30. As offspring of vipers—Mt. 12:34; 23:33. As inwardly wicked—Lu. 11:39-40. As an adulterous generation—Mt. 12:39; 16:4. As blind guides—Mt. 15:14; 23:16, 19, 24, 26. As whited sepulchres—Mt. 23:27. As more careless of the Kingdom than publicans and harlots—Mt. 21:31 ff. As unworthy of Moses' seat, which they held—Mt. 23:2 ff. As loving praise—Mt. 23:6 ff. As making their proselytes worse than they were themselves—Mt. 23:15. As unworthy of the Kingdom, which shall be taken away from them—Mt. 21:43 ff.

Attitude towards the Apostles.—Indifferent toward them when they merely proclaimed the resurrection of Jesus, a doctrine held by the Pharisees. So Gamaliel opposed the death of the apostles—Acts 5:34-40. Resentment towards Stephen—he accented, as Jesus, the spiritual character of worship independent of place or mere ceremony. Hence Pharisees (Elders, Scribes—Acts 6:12) arraigned Stephen before the Sanhedrin and compassed his death—Acts 6:10-7:60.

Hatred of Paul.—After his conversion and return to Jerusalem, the Pharisees sought to kill him as a renegade Pharisee—Acts 9:29. It is the Pharisaic Jews who oppose Paul all over the world—See Acts Chaps. 13-28. It is Pharisaic Jews from Ephesus who raise the cry against Paul in Jerusalem—Acts 21:27. Before the Sanhedrin Paul claims to be a Pharisee, as he was, on the point of the resurrection from the dead, to divide the Sanhedrin—Acts 23:6 ff. They assert Paul's innocence for the moment—Acts 23:9. But later join in the effort to kill him—Acts 24:1.

Pharisaic Pride.—Shared in by Paul once—Acts 22:3 ff.; 26:5; Gal. 1:14; Phil. 3:6.

*SADDUCEES: Origin of Name.—Very uncertain, though now generally derived from the proper name Zadok, followers of Zadok. Derivation from word meaning "righteous" now given up by most scholars.

Priestly Extraction.—Not all priests were Sadducees, but all Sadducees were priests.

Aristocrats.—The Pharisees had more sympathy with the people, up to a certain extent. But the Sadducees were distinctly aristocratic. They belonged to the high priestly class (chief priests).

Connection with Sanhedrin.—In the time of Christ they formed a majority of the Sanhedrin and the high priests. Annas and Caiaphas were Sadducees. They held the power that remained to the Jews.

Sympathy with Hellenism.—They succeeded the priestly Hellenizing party of Jason and Menelaus and favored adoption of Greek customs in opposition to the Pharisees.

Origin.—Their first appearance was in connection with John Hyrcanus I (B. C. 135-105) whom they won away from the Pharisees because of their more liberal attitude. A bitter fight ensued between Pharisees and Sadducees for power. Now one side, now the other, was victorious. But finally the Romans robbed the Jews of political rule. Then Pharisees remained the chief ecclesiastical teachers (scribes), while the Sadducees held the reins of ecclesiastical power (priests).

Teachings.—They were more political than religious, cared nothing for the oral traditions of the Pharisees. They denied the resurrection of the body (Mt. 22:23; Mk. 12:18; Lu. 20:27; Acts 4:1, 2; 23:8). They did not believe in angels or spirits

Denounced by John the Baptist.—(Cf. Mt. 3:7) as no better than the Pharisees. Joined with the Pharisees in embassy to John the Baptist (John 1:19).

Hated the Pharisees.—They sat with Pharisees in the Sanhedrin, but were ready for an explosion on occasion. Cf. Acts 5:34-39; 23:7-10.

Rejected and persecuted Jesus.—Mentioned by name in the Gospels on but three occasions, but really meant by chief priests (and Pharisees) as in John 7:32, 45; 11:47; Mt. 21:45. Sadducees aroused against Christ much later than the Pharisees and largely on political grounds. They hate the Pharisees, but Jesus more. So they finally join with their old enemies against Jesus in tempting him with a demand for a sign from heaven—Mt. 16:1. They tried to arrest Jesus at the Feast of the Tabernacles—John 7:32, 45. The raising of Lazarus from the dead angered the Sadducees (chief priests) very much—John 11:47. Caiaphas (a Sadducee) offers a solution of the problem of Jesus, his death for personal and political reasons—John 11:48-50. They were enraged by the triumphal entry and entrance into the Temple itself—Mt. 21:15. The cleansing of the Temple angers them again so that they challenge the authority of Jesus—Mt. 21:23; Mk. 11:27 f.

7 Jē'sūs said unto him, Again it is written, <sup>2</sup> Thou shalt not make trial of the <sup>i</sup> Lord thy God.

8 Again, the <sup>j</sup> devil taketh <sup>k</sup> him unto an exceeding high <sup>l</sup> mountain, and showeth him all the <sup>m</sup> kingdoms of the <sup>n</sup> world, and the <sup>o</sup> glory of them; 9 and he said unto him, <sup>p</sup> All these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and <sup>q</sup> worship me. 10 Then saith Jē'sūs unto him, Get thee hence, Satan: for it is written, <sup>r</sup> Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve. 11 Then the devil leaveth him; and behold,

42 <sup>a b</sup> Give to him that asketh thee, and from him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away.

43 Ye have heard that it was said, <sup>41</sup>Thou shalt love thy neighbor, and hate thine enemy: 44 but I say unto you, Love your enemies, and pray for them that persecute you; 45 that ye may be sons of your Father who is in heaven: for he maketh his sun to rise on the evil and the good, and sendeth rain on the just and the unjust. 46 For if ye love them that love you, what reward have ye? do not even the publicans the same? 47 And if ye salute your brethren only, what do ye more than others? do not even the Gentiles the same?

6 Take heed that ye do not your righteousness before men, to be seen of them: else ye have no reward with your Father who is in heaven.

2 When therefore thou doest alms, sound not a trumpet before thee, as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and in the streets, that they may have glory of men. Verily I say unto you, They have received their realms, let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth: 4 that thine alms may be in secret:

and thy Father who seeth in secret shall recompense thee.

6 Give not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast your pearls before the swine, lest haply they trample them under their feet, and turn and rend you.

7 Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you: 8 for every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened. 9 Or what man is there of you, who, if his son shall ask

13 Enter ye in by the narrow gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many are they that enter in thereby. 14 For narrow is the gate, and straitened the way, that leadeth unto life, and few are they that find it.

15 Beware of false prophets, who come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly are ravening wolves. 16 By their fruits ye shall know them. Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles? 17 Even so every good tree bringeth forth good—makes sound, ALLEN.

* POSSESSION BY DEMONS. Gr. Daimonismos, "to be possessed or held by a demon." In every New Testament passage it is "Demons," not "Devils." Still there is an intimate relation between them. Jesus is represented as struggling with Satan in his casting out of Demons—Mk. 3:27. The belief in that day was that Beelzebub was the Prince of the demons—Mk. 3:22. As reported in Mt. 8:29, the demons recognized their final abode, but whether they were demons who were to be cast into the lake of fire is questionable. The term is "Angels"—Mt. 25:41. The whole matter is involved in obscurity, but sufficient information is given in the New Testament to justify the belief in the possession of demons.

"In such possession two features may generally be traced. It is allied with and yet distinct from physical disease, and there is almost always something abnormal with respect to the physical development or defect of the sufferer. It is given as the explanation in cases of dumbness—Mt. 9:32; Lu. 11:14. Of deafness and dumbness—Mk. 9:25. Of dumbness and blindness—Mt. 12:22. Of curvature of the spine—Lu. 13:11. And of epilepsy—Mk. 1:26. Elsewhere such complaints are referred to as merely disease, and no suggestion is made that they were caused or complicated by the action of an evil spirit—Mt. 15:30; Mk. 7:32; Lu. 18:35. Sometimes possession and disease are even distinguished by different enumeration (Mt. 10:8; Mk. 1:32; Lu. 6:17-19; 7:21; 13:42),

*PUBLICAN. Gr. Tēlōnīs, a Tax Farmer. The Roman senate, as early as the II Punic War, began to farm the direct taxes and customs, including the duty on goods carried into and out of the cities, to capitalists who were to pay a given sum into the public treasury. These officers employed others to attend to the details of the work who were usually natives and frequently Jews. The word Tēlōnīs referred to the latter class. The method for collection was as follows: The taxes were lumped off at auction. The auctioneer was censor, and the buyer became one of the company, so sharing the profits. They made the most they could out of the bargain, which gave rise to gross abuses. As the Jews stickled about paying taxes to Caesar, the calling was considered dishonorable. They practised extortion, as charged by John the * APOSTLES.—Gr. Apostoloi, "To send on a Mission." Christ Himself was the Apostle of the Father.—Johr. 17:18; Heb. 3:1, 2.

Paul uses the Term in stating Various Commissions.—II Cor. 8:23; Phil. 2:25; Rom. 16:7.

But the Ordinary Application is to the Twelve.—Matthias was added in the place of Judas Iscariot. The name was given to the Twelve by Jesus—Lu. 6:13. A record of the group is found in—Mt. 10:2-4; Mk. 3:14-19; Lu. 6:13-16; Acts 1:13. The first appointment embraced Twelve, corresponding to the twelve tribes of Israel—Rev. 21:12, 14. afterwards 70 were sent forth (Lu. 10:1), indicating perhaps, prospectively, the broadening out of the commission, since the Jewish conception of mankind comprised 70 nations. But the term "Apostles" was not applied to the 70 in the technical sense. The development was gradual. (1) Called to be companions and followers of Jesus—Mk. 1:16-20; John 1:35-50. (2) Organized into a band of Twelve—Lu. 6:13-16. (3) Instructed in the kingdom. The Purpose threefold (1) That they might company with Him. (2) Witness His deeds, remember His words, and attest His Resurrection as disciples. (3) That they might go into all the world as His commissioners (Apostles)—Mk. 3:14; Mt. 28:19, 20. They wandered to and fro (Mt. 8:19, 20) and thus became detached from the world—John 17:16. The miracles were to prove to them the power of their leader—John 11:15. The Parables were to utilize their knowledge of nature and of human Nature—Mt. 13:51, 52. Half of them were in the training a trifle over 3 years. They were to become witnesses of Jesus, of His death and resurrection—Lu. 24:48; Acts 1:8. They were to preach the gospel to the world—Mt. 28:18-20; Mk. 16:15, 16; Lu. 24:45-47; Acts 2:41, 42. But they were to tarry in Jerusalem until they were endued with power from on high—Lu. 24:49. Paul was not a member of the body of Twelve. He was an independent apostle on a par with them—Acts 14:4, 14. Barnabas and James, the Lord's brother, are sometimes called apostles, probably in the more general sense of the term.

Signs and Qualifications of Apostles.—II Cor. 12:12. Must have seen Jesus and be able to testify to what they had seen and heard—John 15:27; Acts 1:21, 22; 22:14, 15; I Cor.

LIVES OF THE TWELVE APOSTLES.—Andrew—A fisherman of Bethsaida, and son of John—John 1:42. He was one of the first two who found the Messiah (John 1:41) and had been formerly a disciple of John the Baptist—John 1:35. He made for himself a good name by bringing his brother Simon; and was apparently broader in his feeling toward the Gentiles—John 12:2. But it is not clear that Andrew and Philip knew what to do with the problem of the Greeks.

Philip of Bethsaida, "the City of Andrew and Peter"—John 1:44. He was the first man to whom Jesus said "Follow me"—John 1:43. Christ found him, not he Christ. This may show that he had a retiring spirit. At any rate, in all four lists of the Twelve he stands fifth in order. John records three incidents in which Philip took a leading part. (1) He is consulted about feeding the multitude—John 6:5. (2) He shares with Andrew the honor of introducing the Greeks to Jesus—John 12:22. (3) He seeks for a vision of the Father—John 14:8. His answer to Nathaniel's question made him famous—John 1:46.

Bartholomew, Bar-tolmai, Son of Talmai. His narrow question, "Can any good thing come out of Nazareth?" was instantly followed by fervid conviction. Our Lord pronounced him "an Israelite indeed, without guile"—John 1:46-49. He was numbered with the Other Apostles after the Resurrection—John 21:2. As Bartholomew, nothing is recorded of him.

Thomas.—Known as the doubter. His character is greatly misunderstood. He was querulous and gloomy; generally disposed to look on the dark side. But though he fell into the depth of despair on account of our Lord's death, when he obtained the evidence he demanded, he leaped to the very summit of faith—John 20:24-28. The trial of his faith made it harder to endure, and Luke promotes him above Bartholomew and Matthew—Acts 1:13. Three incidents throw strong light upon his character: (1) Ready to follow Jesus to death—John 11:16. (2) Searching after the true way—John 14:5. (3) Reliance on sense rather than on faith—John 20:24-29. He was one of the seven who journeyed north to Galilee to meet the Risen Lord—John 21:2. Then again he was among the apostles, awaiting the power from on high—Acts 1:13. As it is with some of the other apostles, nothing is said in detail of his separate labors in the gospel.

James, Son of Alphaeus (The Little. See Mk. 15:40 marg.). Styled thus, probably on account of his stature. His mother was Mary, one of the few women who stood by the cross and visited the sepulchre—Mk. 16:1; John 19:25. Tradition says that he had been a tax-gatherer.

Thaddæus.—One of the Twelve, as given in Mt. 10:3; Mk. 3:18. He is probably to be identified with the Judas ("The Son of James") in Luke's lists—Lu. 6:16; Acts 1:13. In all four lists, Thaddæus, or Judas, comes next to Simon the Zealot, by which it seems he was either a brother or friend. Nothing is recorded of him except the question asked by him of Jesus, where it is said, "Not Iscariot"—John 14:22.

Simon Zealotes, Called the Canaanite—Mt. 10:4; Mk. 3:18; Lu. 6:15; Acts 1:13.

Judas Iscariot.—The Man of Kerioth, a town in the south of Judæa. He was the only one of the Twelve who was not fruitful. 23 And <sup>a</sup> he that was sown upon the good <sup>b</sup> ground, this is he that heareth the <sup>c</sup> word, and <sup>e</sup> understandeth it; who verily beareth <sup>f</sup> fruit, and bringeth forth, some a hundred-fold, some sixty, some thirty.

24 Another <sup>a</sup> parable set he before them, saying, The <sup>b</sup> kingdom of <sup>c</sup> heaven is likened unto <sup>d</sup> a <sup>e</sup> man that <sup>f</sup> sowed good <sup>g</sup> seed in his <sup>h</sup> field: 25 but while men <sup>i</sup> slept, his <sup>j</sup> enemy came and sowed <sup>k</sup> tares also among the wheat, and went away. 26 But when the blade sprang up and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also. 27 And the <sup>l</sup> servants of the <sup>m</sup> householder came and said unto him, Sir, didst thou not sow good seed in <sup>n</sup> thy field? whence then hath it tares? 28 And he said unto them, <sup>o</sup> An enemy hath done this. And the <sup>p</sup> servants say unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and <sup>q</sup> gather them up? 29 But he saith, Nay; lest haply while ye gather up the tares, ye root up the <sup>r</sup> wheat with them. 30 Let both grow together until the harvest: and in the time of the harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather up first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them; but <sup>s</sup> gather the wheat into my <sup>t</sup> barn.

34 All these things spake Jēśūs in parables unto the multitudes; and <sup>a</sup> without a parable spake he nothing unto them: 35 that <sup>b</sup> it might be fulfilled which was spoken <sup>c</sup> through the prophet, saying,

36 Then he left the <sup>a</sup> multitudes, and went into <sup>b</sup> the house: and his <sup>c</sup> disciples came unto him, saying, <sup>d</sup> Explain unto us the parable of the tares of the field. 37 And he answered and said, He that soweth the good seed is the <sup>e</sup> Son of man; 38 <sup>f</sup> and the field is the world; and the good seed, these are † HERODS: Eleven Members of the Family in the New Testament.—Herod the Great.—Mt. 2:1; Archelaus—Mt. 2:22; Herod Antipas—Lu. 3:1; Mk. 6:14; Herodias—Mk. 6:17; her daughter Salome—Mk. 6:22; Philip, the first husband of Herodias—Mk. 6:17; Philip the Tetrarch. Cf. Trachonitis and Ituræa—Lu. 3:1; Herod Agrippa I—Acts 12:1; Herod Agrippa II—Acts 25:13; Drusilla—Acts 24:24; Bernice—Acts 25:13.

Name Herod applied to Three.—Only three of the family have the term Herod in the New Testament: Herod the Great, who slew the male children in Bethlehem—Mt. 2:16; Herod Antipas, who beheaded John the Baptist—Mk. 6:14; Herod Agrippa I, who slew James, the brother of John—Acts 12:1.

Idumean Dynasty.—Antipas the Idumean ingratiated himself into the good graces of John Hyrcanus II, made use of his fears and his weaknesses, became useful to Julius Cæsar, and finally his personal representative in the government.

Herod the Great.—Son of Antipater the Idumean. Born a. c. 74 and died a. c. 4, being about 70 years old (Josephus, Ant. XVII, VI, D). He was a vassal king of Rome and a Greek in sympathy. His marriage with Mariamne, daughter of John Hyrcanus II, gave his throne more legitimacy with the Jews. But he had ten wives in all. Josephus tells the story of his splendor, his cruelty to his own family (putting to death Mariamne and her mother Alexandra, Mariamne's two sons, besides Antipater and many others). He managed to keep the friendship of Augustus Cæsar, but lost the love of the Jews. He antagonized their customs and introduced many Hellenizing practices. The slaughter of the babes in Bethlehem (Mt. 2:13-18) was in perfect harmony with his character in Josephus. He would brook no rival and no interference with his plans. Message of the Wise Men "troubled" Herod (Mt. 2:3) about the succession to the throne. Hence his inquiry of the chief priests and scribes about the birth-place of the promised Messiah (2:4). His duplicity with the Wise Men (2:7 f.) is in accord with his picture in Josephus.

Archelaus.—Elder son of Herod the Great by Malthace the Samaritan. He was the heir of Herod the Great by his last will. Was given only Judea, Samaria, and Idumea, and obtained the title of Ethnarch from Augustus with promise of king if he behaved properly. He was popularly called king. He was the very worst of the sons of Herod living after the death of Antipater. Hence the dread of Joseph in Egypt—Mt. 2:22. He ruled only ten years, ill a. d. 6, when he was deposed by the Emperor. His career is probably referred to by Jesus in the Parable of the Pounds—Lu. 19:12 f. When Jesus came to Jerusalem at 12 years of age (Lu. 2:42), he would probably hear talk of the recent downfall of Archelaus.

Herod Antipas.—Second son of Herod the Great by Malthace. He obtained, a. c. 4, Galilee and Perea with the title of Tetrarch. Ruled till banished to Lyons in Gaul in a. p. 39. The youth and most of the ministry of Jesus were spent in the territory of Herod Antipas. Yet he never saw Jesus till the trial of Jesus—Lu. 23:8. His court was at Tiberias, a city that Jesus avoided. Jesus knew that Herod would be hostile toward him, and warned his disciples against the leaven of Herod—Mk. 8:15. The Pharisees once reported that Herod was plotting to kill him, and Christ called him, "That fox"—Lu. 13:31 f. He feared the reports about Jesus, thinking that he was John the Baptist come to life again—Mt. 14:1 f.; Mk. 6:14; Lu. 9:7-9. He had imprisoned John for denouncing his adulterous marriage with Herodias—Mt. 14:3 f.; Mk. 6:17. Josephus adds a political motive for the arrest of John—Ant. XVIII, V. 2. He had divorced his wife, a daughter of Aretas, in order to marry Herodias, the wife of Herod Philip of Rome. Herodias was indeed the niece of this Philip (half-brother of Antipas). Both were close kin to Antipas. The shameful marriage outraged the Jews, and John's rebuke ultimately cost his head through the resentment of Herodias (Mk. 6:19), who used Herod Antipas's love for the dancing of her own daughter for that purpose—Mt. 14:6-12; Mk. 6:20-29. The jealousy of Herodias toward Agrippa I led to the banishment of Antipas and herself.

Philip of Rome.—Son of Herod the Great by Mariamne (Daughter of Simon, not the Maccabee). He lived in Rome and comes into the New Testament merely as the first husband of Herodias—Mk. 6:17.

Herodias.—She was a Maccabean in part, daughter of Aristobulus, son of Mariamne (daughter of Hyrcanus II, and wife of Herod the Great). Her mother was Bernice, daughter of Salome (Herod's sister). She is a sad specimen of the degenerate woman of the time. She probably deserted Philip for Antipas for ambition, and for ambition lost all at last. She never forgave John the Baptist (Mk. 6:19), and prostituted her own daughter to the public dance to get revenge on him—Mk. 6:24; Mt. 14:8.

Salome.—Daughter of Herodias by Herod Philip, her first husband. She is called Herodias also in some manuscripts in Mk. 6:22. She performed the disgraceful dance that won the head of John the Baptist on a platter—Mt. 14:8-11; Mk. 6:25-28. She married Philip Tetrarch of Trachonitis and later Aristobulus of Chalcis.

Philip of Trachonitis.—Son of Herod the Great by Cleopatra of Jerusalem. He obtained (s. c. 4) Trachonitis and Ituraea with the title of Tetrarch (Lu. 3:1), which he ruled till his death, A. D. 34. He was the best of Herod the Great's sons who succeeded him, and was free from ambition, cruelty, and lust. He founded Caesarea Philippi. Jesus made a journey into this region—Mt. 16:13; Mk. 8:27. Jesus withdrew to Bethsaida (Lu. 9:10); also on an earlier occasion, which was in Philip's Territory. He was here free from the jealousy of Herod Antipas.

Herod Agrippa I.—Son of Aristobulus, who was son of Mariamne the Maccabee and Herod the Great. His mother was Bernice, daughter of Salome (sister of Herod the Great). He was brought up in Rome as friend of Caligula, who, when he became emperor, made Agrippa King of the Tetrarchies of Philip and Lyranias (A. D. 38). On the banishment of Herod Antipas, in A. D. 39, he had Galilee and Perea added to his realm. In A. D. 42 Claudius gives him also Judaea and Samaria, so that for a brief period a Herod again is king of all Palestine. The death of James and imprisonment of Peter by Herod Agrippa belong to this period—Acts 12:1 ff. His shameful death at Caesarea in A. D. 44 was a fitting close to a disgraceful career—Acts 12:19-23. Cf. Josephus, Ant. xix, viii, 2.

Herod Agrippa II.—Son of Herod Agrippa I and Cypros. Was only 17 years old on death of his father in A. D. 44. Hence Claudius refused to give him his father's kingdom. Later made Tetrarch of Chalcis with oversight of the Temple in Jerusalem, and then received instead the Tetrarchies of Philip and Lyranias. Report had it that he lived unlawfully with his sister Bernice—Acts 25:13, 23; 26:30. He is called king in Acts 25:13, 26; 26:2, 30. He is on good terms with Festus, the Roman Procurator of Judaea—Acts 25:13-27. Paul commends his knowledge of Jewish customs (Acts 25:3), though he was a lover of Hellenism, like all the Herods. He supported Rome during the Jewish war. His interest in Paul was at first indifferent (Acts 25:22); was never great (Acts 26:28), though he saw clearly that Paul was innocent of any crime—Acts 26:32. He died about A. D. 100, the last of the Herods.

Bernice.—Eldest daughter of Agrippa I. She had a varied career as wife of her uncle, Herod of Chalcis, and of Polemon, King of Cilicia; as paramour of her brother Agrippa and of Titus the Roman Emperor. She only appears once in New Testament History, but is mentioned three times (Acts 25:13, 23; 26:30) in connection with her brother Agrippa. She attracted notice by her charms.

Drusilla.—Youngest of the daughters of Agrippa I. She married first Azizus, King of Emesa, but left him for Felix, who married her. She is with him while he is Procurator of Judaea, and heard Paul preach (Acts 24:24), when Paul made him tremble. She probably perished in an eruption of Mt. Vesuvius, in the reign of Titus, together with her son, by Felix, named Agrippa.

* REDEMPTION. Heb. Padah, "to release," "ransom," "rescue," "redeem." Used frequently (Deut. 7:8; 9:26; 13:5; 15:16; 21:8; 24:18) in relation to bondage. Another Heb. term is "Ga'al," from which Goel, "Redeemer," used of inheritances, tithes, etc. "The goel is the kinsman who has the right to redeem." Used also as an avenger of blood (Num. 35:12) elsewhere, as in Job 19:25; Ps. 19:14.
In Isaiah it denotes Jehovah as Victor, Deliverer, and Avenger—Is. 41:14; 43:14. The New Testament employs Two Words; one, Agorazo, "to buy or purchase"—I Cor. 6:20; 7:23; II Pet. 1:11; Rev. 5:9; 14:3, 4. The other Greek Word is Lutroo, from Lutroon, "a Ransom." Paul's Word for Redemption is Apolutroon—Rom. 3:24; 8:23; I Cor. 1:30; Eph.
1:7. In Rom. 11:26 "Deliverer" is used for the Old Testament "Redeemer"—Is. 59:20.—HASTINGS, Bible Dictionary.

Lord cometh. 43 <sup>1</sup> But know this, that if the master of the <sup>a</sup> house had known in what <sup>b c</sup> watch the <sup>d</sup> thief was coming, he would have watched, and would not have suffered his house to be <sup>2</sup> broken through. 44 Therefore <sup>c</sup> be ye also ready; for in an <sup>1</sup> hour that ye think not the <sup>2 h</sup> Son of <sup>i</sup> man <sup>j</sup> cometh.

* SANHEDRIN. Gr. Sanhedrion. The Jews' Supreme Council at the Time of Jesus.—Lu. 22:66. It consisted of 71 Members, according to Jewish tradition, founded on the 70 Elders appointed by Moses and including Moses—Num. 11:16. But Moses' 70 were merely temporary, no traces of them being found in Deut. 17:8-11, nor under Joshua, the Judges, and the Kings. The fact that Jehoshaphat called together a sort of Supreme Court favors this—II Chr. 19:8. Elders are also mentioned in Ezra 5:5; 6:7; 10:8; but these, also, passed away. The earliest mention of the Sanhedrin is found in II Macc. 1:10; 4:44; 11:27. This puts its origin under the Greek supremacy. The Sanhedrin was composed of Chief Priests, Scribes and Elders, presided over by an hereditary High Priest—Mt. 26:57; John 11:47-49. Although but one head was recognized by the Roman authorities the judgment of the aged High Priests was sought by the Jewish officers—John 18:12-14. Their power was recognized in all except condemning to death—John 18:28-31. They had lost their power shortly before the death of Jesus. It ranged from minute contempt (Mt. 5:22) to blasphemy of Jehovah—Mk. 14:61-63. The Sanhedrin plotted the death of Jesus—Mt. 26:14, 15; Mk. 14:10, 11; Lu. 22:3-5; John 11:47-53. They caused the arrest of Jesus—John 18:2, 3. They tried Jesus in order to kill Him, not to learn of His guilt or innocence—Mt. 26:59, 60; Mk. 14:55, 56. It was their insistence that caused the death of Jesus—John 18:29, 30. This council thrust itself between the apostles and the people—Acts 4:15-17. The Sadducees brought the apostles before the Sanhedrin—Acts 4:1-7; 5:17, 18. Peter defies them—Acts 5:29-32. Had Stephen arrested and tried—Acts 6:12, 13; 7:1. Saul acted under the authority of the Sanhedrin in his successful persecution of the disciples—Acts 9:2, 14; 26:12. It was a constant vexation to Paul—Acts 22:30; 23:1, 6, 15, 20, 28; 24:20; 25:12. Finally forcing him to Rome—Acts 25:9-12; for their power extended to Jews of foreign cities—Acts 9:2. Paul skillfully divided the Sanhedrin over his case—Acts 23:6-10. With the destruction of Jerusalem the Sanhedrin was abolished.

a maid came unto him, saying, Thou also wast with Jē'sūs the Gal-il-ee. 70 But he denied before them all, saying, I know not what thou sayest. 71 And when he was gone out into the porch, another maid saw him, and saith unto them that were there, This man also was with Jē'sūs of Nāz-ā-rēth. 72 And again he denied with an oath, I know not the man. 73 And after a little while they that stood by came and said to Peter, Of a truth thou also art one of them; for thy speech maketh thee known. 74 Then began he to curse and to swear, I know not the man. And straightway the cock crew. 75 And Peter remembered the word which Jē'sūs had said, Before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice. And he went out, and wept bitterly. 27 Now when morning was come, all the chief priests and the elders of the people took counsel against Jē'sūs to put him to death: 2 and they bound him, and led him away, and delivered him up to Pilāte the governor.

But they said, What is that to us? see thou to it. 5 And he cast down the pieces of silver into the sanctuary, and departed; and he went away and hanged himself. 6 And the chief priests took the pieces of silver, and said, It is not lawful to put them into the treasury, since it is the price of blood. 7 And they took counsel, and bought with them the potter's field, to bury strangers in. 8 Wherefore that field was called, The field of blood, unto this day. 9 Then was fulfilled that which was spoken through Jēr-ē-mi'ah the prophet, saying, And they took the thirty pieces of silver, the price of him that was priced, whom certain of the children of Is'ra-ēl did price; 10 and they gave them for the potter's field, as the Lord appointed me.

* MARK: Names.—John Mark—Acts 12:12, 25; 15:37. The Jewish name John alone—John 13:5, 13. The Roman name Mark alone—Acts 15:39; Col. 4:10; Philemon 24; I Pet. 5:13; II Tim. 4:11. Cf. Jewish and Roman names combined in Saul Paul.
Home.—Jerusalem and mother's name Mary—Acts 12:12, 25. This home the place where many Disciples gathered for Prayer—Acts 12:12 ff.
Cousin of Barnabas.—Col. 4:10, and so probably a native of Cyprus, and possibly also a Levite like Barnabas (if father a brother of Barnabas). Cf. Acts 3:6.
Uncertain whether Personal Follower of Jesus.—Some consider him the young man mentioned in Mk. 14:51 f. This is quite possible if the "upper room" was in his mother's house—Mk. 14:15. Cf. Acts 12:12. But certainly a Christian when name first mentioned in Acts.
Goes to Antioch with Barnabas and Saul.—Acts 12:25. Probably invited by Barnabas, the leader of the new work among the Greeks at Antioch. As a cousin of Barnabas, and probably a Hellenistic Jew, he would be interested in the new developments there.
Assistant to Barnabas and Saul.—Acts 13:5. Either sub- ordinate or possibly "synagogue minister" (Chase, Hastings' Bible Dictionary).
Leaves Paul and Barnabas at Perga.—Acts 13:13. Returns to Jerusalem—Acts 13:13. Refused by Paul as companion for Second Missionary Tour—Acts 15:37 f. Follows Barnabas to Cyprus—Acts 37:39. Fellow-worker of Paul in Rome—Philemon 24. Commended by Paul to the Colossians—

Col. 4:10. With Peter in Babylon (Rome?)—I Pet. 5:13. Desired by Paul in last imprisonment along with Timothy—II Tim. 4:11.
Peter's Interpreter.—So Papias as quoted in Eusebius (H. E. iii. 39). Cf. Swete on Mark, p. xviii. This old tradition in harmony with association with Peter (I Pet. 5:13) and Peter's expressed wish to help the readers of his second Epistle (II Pet. 1:15) to "be able to call these things to remembrance" after his decease. Character of the Gospel of Mark in har- mony also with story of Papias that Mark, as Peter's inter- preter, wrote down accurately what he remembered of the Words and Deeds of Jesus.
GOSPEL OF MARK: Date of the Gospel of Mark.—The gen- eral opinion among modern students of the Synoptic Problem is that the Gospel of Mark is a genuine Work and the earli- est of the Four Gospels. Swete, p. xxxv, thinks that it cannot be later than A. D. 70. It may indeed quite possibly be between 55 and 60 A. D.
Place of Writing.—This is not known, but is usually sup- posed to be Rome. We have seen Mark in Rome with Paul (Philemon 24) and probably with Peter (I Pet. 5:13). But one cannot be positive when nothing is told.
Characteristics of the Gospel of Mark.—For Romans espe- cially. This is the early tradition, and it is supported by the probable fact that it was written in Rome. There is also a distinct absence of peculiar Jewish features such as are seen in the Gospel of Matthew. No Jewish genealogy occurs here.
Humanity of Jesus accented.—This Gospel is not therefore a theological treatise after the order of Matthew, though the conception of Christ is the same. He is "Jesus Christ, the Son of God" (Mk. 1:1), whose Gospel is here narrated. He is divine as well as human.

Beginning of Christ's Gospel, not of His Life.—Mk. 1:1. Mark does not narrate the birth and childhood of Jesus. He even skips the first year of His ministry after His baptism. Possibly a year (according to John's gospel) comes in between verse 13 and 14 in Chap. 1.

Mainly the Galilean Gospel.—1:14-9:50, counting the period of withdrawal into regions around Galilee.

Climax in Jerusalem during the Last Passover.—Chaps. 11-16. Galilee and Jerusalem, the two foci of Christ's Ministry, according to Mark. This is precisely what Peter does in his sketch of Christ's work in His early apostolic preaching. The work and death of Christ (and resurrection) the main elements in the earliest preaching.

Deeds of Jesus rather than His Words.—Hence the miracles are numerous in Mark. Same number (18) as that in Matthew and only 20 in Luke. But Mark has only 4 Parables, while Matthew has 15. The sayings of Christ seem to have been first collected into a group of Logia. Mark represents the crisp record of His deeds.

Person of Christ in Action.—Thus he teaches the truth about Jesus. There is rapid movement, power, results. Jesus is shown to be the Son of God, with divine power. The Greek adverb εὐθύς (straightway) occurs forty-one times in Mark. There are 151 "historic presents" in Mark, while only 78 in Matthew, and not over 6 in Luke (list of Westcott and Hort). Cf. Hawkins, Horae Synopticae, p. 114 ff. Energy is the word that best describes Mark's narratives. The ancients compared Mark's Gospel to the lion.

Vividness of Detail.—There are constant changes of tense in Mark, due to vividness of conception. Cf. 6:15 ff.; 6:14 ff. &c. As the reporter of Peter's descriptions there are naturally marks of an eye-witness—7:17; 10:17; 12:41. These vivid details come out particularly in story of the demoniac in the rocks (Mk. 5:1-20) where many items are alone in Mark. This pictorial autoptic character of the Gospel is in harmony with notion of its early date and Petrine influence. Mark tells of the gestures of Jesus (9:36), looks of Jesus (5:32; 6:6, &c.), love for the young ruler and his look of despondency (10:21 f.), &c. After Peter's denial these details are fewer. The matters that would tend to recall Peter are usually absent from the Gospel.

Emotions of Jesus.—Sternness (1:43), Anger (3:5), Wonder (6:6), Indignation (10:14), Amazement in the Garden of Gethsemane (14:33 f.).

Deity of Christ.—Yet without a Gospel gives a stronger impression of the deity of Jesus, not even John's Gospel. This comes out in the claims of Jesus as Lord of the Sabbath

(2:28), with power to forgive sins (2:5, 10), with power and glory (14:62), &c.

Pauline Character.—Pfleiderer holds that this Gospel represents the Pauline gospel of grace for all men, both Gentile and Jew. This is true, but it is also true of every book in the New Testament. They are all Pauline in that sense, that Paul rightly interpreted the mind of Christ on the point of Gentile freedom.

Independent Matter in Mark.—There are only some eighty verses (Swete, Comm., p. lxxviii.) in Mark not in the Synoptic Gospels. But in the matters reported by him, brief as his Gospel is, he is usually fuller than the other Gospels, another sign of Peter's descriptive powers as reported by Mark. Chief matters in Mark alone occur in 3:20 f.; 4:26-29; 7:31-37; 8:22-26; 14:51 ff.

Chronological Order.—So almost uniformly in this Gospel as in Luke. But his Gospel is no more a history than the others are.

Explanation by Mark.—He gives the Aramaic a few times and then translates into Greek as in 5:41; 7:11, 34; &c. Sometimes he explains the conduct of Christ as in 5:30; 8:19. He uses rather more Latin words than the other Gospels, like denarius, legion, centurion, &c.

Quotations from the Old Testament.—There are 67 references in Mark to the Old Testament, 23 merely verbal allusions and only 7 peculiar to Mark. Mark's more formal quotations are found in 1:2, 3; 4:12, 32; 7:6, 7, 10; 8:18; 9:48; 10:4, 6, 7, 8, 19, 27; 11:9; 12:2, 10, 11, 19, 31, 36; 13:12, 14, 19, 24, 26; 14:27, 34, 62.

Special Phrases.—Besides the vivid terms and adverbs in Mark already mentioned, a few others call for mention. Constant use of the first person as in 4:39; 6:8, 9, 12; 6:2, &c. He uses many diminutives. It is in the vernacular Greek of the time, and the conversational style is apparent all through the book. The vocabulary is not peculiar at all, though a few unusual words occur as in 9:47.

Gospel for Children.—As the earliest and simplest Gospel, Mark is the favorite of the children, and is best adapted for them. Around this simple objective picture of Jesus at work among men, it is easy to group the other Gospels (Matthew, Luke and John).

Teaching of Mark.—It is only necessary to say that the picture of Jesus is at the bottom the same in Mark that we find elsewhere. He gave his life a ransom for men (10:45; 14:24). His power is compassionate and beneficial, not destructive. Jesus is not merely the Great Teacher, but the Great Worker. His miracles are acted parables and his deeds speak louder than any words.

* HELL.—Gr. Gehenna, "Valley of Hinnom." From Heb. "Gehenna," "Valley," and "Hinnom," name of the owner. (West of Jerusalem, where noxious things were burned up.) Used figuratively as name or place of everlasting punishment. Distinct from Hades, which is the place or state of all departed souls, and corresponds to Sheol in Old Testament. The expression "Lowest Sheol" in Old Testament is indicative of Hell.

Not in O. T. of A. R. V. N. T. usage.

(1) "Hades" translated "Hell" ten times in A. V. ("death" once) is transferred "Hades" in A. R. V. ten times ("death" once). Sometimes "Hades" is used in context where it is clear that the abode of the wicked is meant. Cf. Lu. 16:23, "in Hades," "in torments;" Death and Hades cast into the Lake of Fire—Rev. 20:14. English Word "Hell" is from Anglo-Saxon helan, to hide, conceal. Originally the other World, like "Hades" the "Unseen" World, then confined to the abode of the damned.

(2) "Tartarus" used but once, limited to Evil Angels, is retained in A. R. V. II Pet. 2:4.

(3) "Gehenna" used eleven times by Jesus, once by James and by no others, is translated "Hell" uniformly. See "Fire"—Lev. 10:2. "Punishment"—Gen. 39:20. "Sheol"—Job 7:9. "The Judgment"—II Pet. 2:4. "Destruction"—Hos. 13:14. "Death"—Rom. 5:12.

17 <sup>r</sup> And as he was going forth <sup>s</sup> into the way, there ran one to him, and <sup>t</sup> kneeled to him, and asked him, Good <sup>u</sup> Teacher, what shall I do that I may <sup>v</sup> inherit <sup>w</sup> eternal life? 18 And Jē-sūs said unto him, Why callest thou me <sup>x</sup> good? <sup>y</sup> none is good save one, <sup>z</sup> even God. 19 Thou knowest the <sup>a</sup> command-ligious sect. This matter is not clear. But certainly they represent those under Roman rule who wished for a restoration of the rule of the Herods, probably under Herod Antipas. Hence in Galilee (Mk. 3:6) Jesus warned the disciples against the leaven of Herod Antipas (Mk. 8:15), but this need not have been either that of the Pharisees or of the Sadducees (Mt. 16:6). A distinction seems to be drawn between the Herodians and both Pharisees and Sadducees in—Mt. 22:15 f., 23; Mk. 12:13, 18; Lu. 20:20, 27. As in Mk. 3:6, so here they join with the Pharisees in attacking Jesus about tribute to Cæsar. As advocates of the dynasty of Herod they opposed paying taxes to Rome.

Grecian, or Greek-speaking Jews.—In Acts 6:1, a distinction is made between the Christian Jews who belonged to the Dispersion and spoke Greek (Hellenists) and the Christian Jews who were Palestinians and spoke Aramaic (Hebrews). The term Hellenist occurs also in Acts 9:29 for Jews of the Dispersion now in Jerusalem, while in Acts 11:20 the American Standard Version correctly reads "Greeks also," not Jews at all. For Greek in the usual, non-Jewish sense see Acts 16:1; 18:4; Rom. 1:14, 16; 10:12; John 12:20; Gal. 3:28.

*LUKE: Name.—Not the same as Lucius in Acts 13:1. Probably an abbreviated pet name from Lucanus, a common custom of the time with many names. The name occurs only three times in the New Testament. (Philemon 24, Col. 4:14; II Tim. 4:11.)

Birthplace.—Absolutely unknown. Antioch in Syria, Antioch in Pisidia, Philippi in Macedonia have all been suggested.

Home.—Luke lived in Philippi apparently, from Paul's first visit there (Acts 16:12; 17:1) till Paul's return by Philippi on his way to Jerusalem during the third tour (Acts 20:5 f.). This is apparent from the use of "we" and "they." It is possible indeed that Luke had come from Macedonia to Troas and that his visit led to Paul's vision recorded in Acts 16:10 f. Luke shows unusual interest in Philippi, manifesting local pride in its claim to "first" as opposed to Amphipolis (Acts 16:12).

Family.—Also unknown, unless Titus is his brother. Curiously, neither Luke nor Titus are mentioned in Acts. Luke is not mentioned because he wrote the book. Why not Titus? Cf. II Cor. 12:18. Paul mentions "the brother" in connection with Titus where he seems to mean "his brother."

A. Souter (Hastings' D. B.) considers this passage and II Cor. 8:18 proof that Luke is this brother (cf. Acts above). If so, we have this interesting detail.

Gentile.—Titus was a Greek (Gal 2:3). If Luke was his brother, he would be, of course, Greek also. The failure to mention Luke in the list of Jewish brethren (Col. 4:10 f.), putting him apart with Greek names in Col. 4:14 f., indicates that he was not a Jew. Luke's Greek style (Lu. 1:1-4), when influenced by his Aramaic or Jewish sources, corroborates this idea.

Man of Culture.—His two books (Gospel and Acts) show him to be a man of education. His introduction to his Gospel is worthy of any historian. He has the historian's skill in the use of his material.

Physician.—Expressly called by Paul (Col. 4:14) "Luke, the beloved physician." Many current medical terms in both Gospel and Acts. Cf. Hobart, "The Medical Language of Luke."

Companion of Paul.—He was with Paul at Troas and Philippi during Second Missionary Tour—Acts 16:10-40. He joins Paul again at Philippi on his third tour en route to Jerusalem (Acts 20:7) and is with him at Jerusalem, Caesarea, voyage to Rome (Acts 20-28). If II Cor. 8:18 and 12:18 refer to Luke, he was in Macedonia with Paul also when in Macedonia during the third tour on his way from Ephesus to Corinth via Macedonia. Luke was with Paul most of the first imprisonment in Rome—Phil. 24; Col. 1:14. He was with him again in the Second Imprisonment—II Tim. 4:11.

Not a Personal Disciple of Jesus.—Some have supposed that he was one of the "Seventy" sent out by Jesus, others have thought him one of the two disciples to whom Jesus appeared on the way to Emmaus; others have thought that he was one of the Greeks who came to see Jesus (John 12:20). But there is no support for any of these ideas. Others think that he was led to Christ by Paul and that he was Paul's physician when he was taken sick in Galatia (Gal. 4:13). The implication in Lu. 1:1-4 is that Luke did not know Jesus personally.

Legend that he was a Painter.—That is possible, but no real proof of it exists. He has great literary skill at any rate.

Harnack's Admission about Luke.—It is now admitted by Harnack that Luke wrote both Gospel and Acts. This is a victory for solid interpretation. Cf. Harnack, "Luke the Physician;" Ramsay, "Luke the Physician."

Same Author for Gospel and Acts.—This is plain from Lu. 1:1-4 and Acts 1:1, as well as from the general style of both books. The vocabulary is largely the same.

Luke a Reliable Historian.—Sir W. M. Ramsay's various books on Luke and Paul have proven the great value of Luke as an historian. He has been shown by discoveries to be right on various items where once he seemed to stand alone—such as the proconsul of Cyprus, the politarchs of Thessalonica, the "First" man of Melita, &c.

Explanation of Method of Work.—In his introduction to his Gospel (1:1-4) he explains his use of his materials. He sought information from oral and written sources. He wished first-hand testimony (eye-witness) whenever he could get it. He tested it all himself, put it in order, and sought to be accurate.

Main Known Sources.—It seems clear that Luke had the Gospel of Mark among his written sources. He seems to have had a book of Logia or Sayings of Jesus, and also the present Matthew. Then he apparently had another source different from both of them. The inference is from his own words that he had a rather large amount of material in hand.

Date of Luke's Gospel.—This matter is not perfectly clear, though scholars see more nearly together about it now. It must come after Mark and the Logia. It must come before the Acts. If Acts was written while Luke was in Rome during the first imprisonment, the conclusion would be easy. That is the most natural meaning of Luke's words in Acts 28:30. He closes Acts after two years in Rome because the events had gone no further. The other view makes Luke's close of Acts merely an artistic one. He had it in mind to bring Paul to Rome. If the first view is correct, the Gospel was written during the two years with Paul in Caesarea. Luke then had leisure to make his researches (in Palestine) about the life of Jesus. He would also have Paul's help. In that case the Gospel would come before A.D. 60. Otherwise it may come as late as 80 A.D. The earlier date is on the whole the most probable.

Characteristics of Luke's Gospel.—Reason for writing given—1:1-4. It is the historical ground that many others had written about Jesus. He wishes to give Theophilus (cf. Acts also) the benefit of his researches into the life of Jesus. Theophilus is probably a real character, a man of some importance.

Editorial Notes.—A. Wright (St. Luke's Gospel in Greek, Art. Luke—Hastings' D. B.) finds many editorial comments in Luke. This is natural in a true historian who is not a mere copyist in the use of his material. There is evidence of much reflection and theological interpretation in Luke as in Matthew and John.

Doctrinal Tendency.—Luke's Gospel is not an objective realistic setting forth of the facts of the life of Christ as in Mark. The facts are there, but they are interpreted. This is in truth a higher form of history. There is no perversion of the facts to advance the cause of Paul against Peter as Baur charged.

Pauline Influence.—The book does correspond in theological outlook with that of Paul, as seen in his Epistles. Luke was greatly indebted to Paul (cf. Mk. also). There is nothing hostile to Peter in the Gospel, and the Gospel has many stern judgments of the Jews; cf. Plummer, Comm. p. 26. The Gospel is not a theological polemic; 101 words occur only in Luke and Paul in the New Testament.

Historical Allusions.—The Gospel (Acts more so) has reference to the general history of the times as one would expect from a man of the Greek world like Luke. Cf. Luke 3:1 ff., where he mentions the imperial and provincial, as well as the ecclesiastical, rulers of the time when John the Baptist began his work. Cf. 13:1 ff. for an incident of the rule of Pontius Pilate.

Universal Outlook.—As a Greek Christian, familiar with Paul's work in the Roman Empire and his plans for the evangelization of the Roman world, Luke naturally shows sympathy with the wider aspects of the work of Christ. His Gospel is for the Gentiles as well as for the Jews. He traces the genealogy of Christ back to Adam. He seems to give the real lineage of Jesus through his mother Mary. He notes that Jesus is enrolled along with Joseph and Mary according to the regulations of the Roman emperor Augustus. He records the song of peace for men of good will at the birth of Jesus (Lu. 2:14).

Infancy of Jesus from Mary's Point of View.—As Matthew gives the birth of Jesus from the standpoint of Joseph in harmony with the Jewish character of his Gospel, so Luke records the universal interest of humanity in the birth of Jesus as seen in the experience of Mary. The source of Luke's information was probably oral and must have come ultimately from Mary herself, but Luke probably obtained the story from a friend of Mary.

First Christian Hymnologist.—Thus Farrar (Messages of the Books) aptly describes Luke's Hymns of the Nativity, Songs of Elisabeth, Mary, Zacharias. They bear the stamp of genuineness in the strongly marked Semitic tone and style. Luke was himself a Greek, but he has preserved the Hebrew spirit of the original source. Chaps. 1 and 2 differ greatly in style from the introduction (1:1-4) and from the rest of the Gospel.

Arrangement chronological.—So in the main as he explained in 1:3; many of the incidents recorded have no special sequence, and Luke may not have known the real chronological order. Cf. Plummer, Comm. p. 37. This was Luke's method in the Acts and strengthens the opinion that he followed the same method in the Gospel.

Series of Pictures.—In the development of his narrative Luke shows much artistic skill. Each incident has a setting more or less distinct. The circumstances, time and place are roughly sketched. Usually the time element is very vague: as about that time, at that very hour, &c. But each incident, miracle or parable is treated as a whole. Sometimes no connection in the series is indicated.

Luke's Special Contribution.—The largest part of the Gospel (9:51-19; 27, the last six months of the ministry of Christ) belongs to the period where we have very little in the other Gospels. Matthew has two chapters (19 and 20), Mark one (10), while John has more (7-11), but matter pertaining to the Jerusalem ministry and different from Luke's account. A good deal of Luke's material is repetition in various details of sayings recorded by Matthew and Mark in the Galilean ministry; and some incidents are parallel. Some scholars think that Luke has here grouped together what really belongs to the Galilean period. It is difficult to think of Luke's doing that. Repetition is common for a teacher. Luke teaching also has like results, as every popular preacher knows. Hence Luke has a source for this section different from Mark or the Logia.

Marcion's Use of Luke.—Marcion built his heretical system partly upon Luke's Gospel. He began with Chap. 4 and omitted all portions that did not coincide with his dogmatic views. He was a dogmatic destructive critic of Luke.

Tolerant in Tone.—Luke's breadth of sympathy is revealed in his recording Christ's rebuke of John for his narrowness of spirit (9:49 f.), in the rebuke of the bitterness of John and James toward the Samaritans (9:51-56), in the story of the Good Samaritan (10:30-37), in the gratitude of the Samaritan leper (17:11-19). Luke was truly catholic in spirit.

Gospel of Sympathy.—This appears in a number of ways. The story of the Rich Man and Lazarus (16:19-31) has even led to the charge that Luke was hostile to men of wealth. But this is unjust and a false interpretation. The Pharisees were indignant at the story of the Unjust Steward (16:14), because they loved money greatly. But Luke does present Jesus as the friend of the poor, the sick and the sinful. Jesus here in immortal parables (ch. 15) justifies his work among publicans and sinners. He is not ashamed, according to Luke, to receive the worship of a sinful woman and to cleanse her (7:36-50), but she is not Mary Magdalene, not Mary of Bethany. Luke (8:2) records the work of a group of noble women for Jesus. He mentions more miracles (20) than any other Gospel and more Sabbath cures also. Only six of his miracles are peculiar to Luke. As a physician this is natural, as is his frequent use of medical terms. The gentleness of Christ comes out well in Luke. Cf. II Cor. 10:1 f.

Praying of Jesus accented.—This done seven times in Luke when not recorded elsewhere. Thus at His baptism (3:21), collision with the Rulers (5:16), choice of the Apostles (6:12), foretelling His death (9:18), the Transfiguration (19:29), before Teaching the Model Prayer (11:1), on the Cross (23:34, 46). He alone gives some of the Parables about Prayer, like the Friend at Midnight (11:5-13), Unrighteous Judge (18:1-6), Pharisee and Publican (18:11-13). Cf. Plummer, Comm. p. 45 f.

Parables.—Luke has several groups of parables not in Matthew. So the three about the feast (14), the three about Publicans and Pharisees (15), two about riches (16), two about prayer (18). In Matthew the parables are usually concerned with the growth, expansion and communication of the Messianic reign. In Luke the parables of Jesus deal chiefly with the personal aspects of religion. There are twenty-three parables in Luke and all but five are peculiar to him. See "Parables of Jesus," Lu. 2:21.

Versatility.—Luke has the finest literary style and flavor of any of the Gospels, yet he shows most acquaintance with Aramaic sources and the Septuagint. He can be as free from Hebraisms as Plutarch. He has a rich and varied vocabulary, using some seven hundred words in the Gospel and Acts that do not occur elsewhere in the New Testament. Yet he reveals many times, in the Gospel in particular, his Aramaic or Hebrew sources by the idioms which his Greek contains.

Contrasts.—In Luke we have a wide range and many sharp contrasts. See the Publicans and Pharisees in 15, the Rich Man and Lazarus in 16, &c.

Old Testament Quotations.—The chief quotations from the Old Testament are contained in 1:17, 37, 46 f., 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 68, 69, 71, 76, 78, 79; 2:23 f.; 3:4-6; 4:4, 8, 10 f., 12, 18 f.; 6:21, 7:27; 8:10; 10:25; 12:53; 18:20; 19:38, 46; 20:9, 17; 28, 42 f.; 21:20, 22, 25 f., 27; 22:37, 69; 23:46. It will be observed that nearly half of these quotations occur in Chapter 1, the songs of Mary and Zacharias. See p. 1747.

Special Phrases.—Luke is fond of the expression "and it came to pass." So he often uses phrases like "at that very hour." The word "favor," "grace" or "gift" is frequent in Luke as are "Saviour" and "Salvation." It is the longest of the Gospels and the richest in the human side of the life of Jesus. Yet chapter 24 in Luke reveals the deity of Jesus conclusively and beautifully.

Beauty of the Book.—Renan as a critic of style called it the most beautiful book in the world.

Relation to Acts.—It is really Part I of Luke's account of the Origin of Christianity. Acts constitutes Part II (Acts 1:1). See "Article on Acts," Acts 1:1.

Teaching.—The Doctrines of Luke have already been sufficiently indicated. He presents a Universal Gospel of grace in full harmony with the exposition of Paul and indeed of Jesus as presented by Matthew and Mark.

used in the New Testament to describe the supernatural works of Christ on earth the three most usual are applied also to those wrought by His Apostles, viz. (1) teras, A.V. wonder (always); (2) semeion, A.V. sign miracle (esp. in St. John), etc.; (3) dunamis, A.V. power, miracle (esp. in Acts and Epistles), etc.; (1) teras (i.e. 'wonder,' 'portent,' describes a miracle's startling effect, and is always accompanied by another of these words, esp. by semeion, to indicate the moral intention, the end and purpose of the wonder (e.g. in A.V. 'wonders and signs,' Acts 2:22). (2) semeion, i.e. 'a sign' describes a miracle as ordained by God to be a mark whereby to identify the Messiah, an attestation of His teaching, an earnest of the blessings He brought, a specimen of God's methods for bringing these blessings home to man, as well as a type (or 'parable in action') of His spiritual Gifts. (3) dunamis, i.e. 'power' (so rendered in A.V., also, generally in plural, 'mighty works'), describes a miracle as a 'new and higher force,' or power of the world to come (Heb. 6:5), entered upon and working in this world; an 'outcoming of the greatness' (megaleia, A.V. 'great things,' Lu. 1:49; Acts 2:1), of God's power and glory inherent in Christ, and lent to His witnesses and ambassadors.

"Miracles are also described at (4) eudoxa, A.V. 'glorious things,' Lu. 13:17, etc., i.e. as manifestations of the glory of God, the Father and Son; (5) paradoxa (A.V. 'strange things'; cp. 'new thing,' Num. 16:30), i.e. as beyond human imagination, amazing (cp. Lu. 5:26), and as (6) thaumasia, A.V. 'wonderful' (Mt. 21:15; cp. Mt. 9:8), i.e. astonishing, occurrences unprecedented in human experience (cp. Mt. 9:33), and (like paradoxa) ascribable to God only."—TRENCH.

Miracles an Evidence of Christ's Divinity—Mt. 11:20-23; Mk. 2:5-12; John 2:11, 23; 3:2, 11; 4:48-53; 9:4; 10:37, 38; 11:45, 46; 14:11, 12; 20:30, 31; Acts 2:22. See "Miracles"—Mk. 16:17.

"PARABLE is the Greek word parabole, which means just-position, and so a comparison of objects, to show a certain likeness or similitude between them. The Jewish method of teaching by parables was apparently adopted by our Lord when the Jews had rejected His direct teaching (Mt. 13:13); but also out of compassionate consideration for the infirmities of the listeners (cp. II Cor. 8:12). Proposed as a spiritual riddle to call the spiritual perceptions into exercise, the Parable—either attracted, interested, provoked inquiry, and thus sowed seed in the memory for future development by Christ Himself or by the Holy Ghost (cp. John 14:26); or left the self-righteous and obdurate self-condemned to spiritual blindness (John 9:30-41; 12:48). Thus the parable sifted the audience, and 'found out the willing hearers and led them on'; like the Shechinah (Ex. 14:20), it was light and guidance to God's children, but darkness and a hindrance to His opponents.—Mk. 4:10-13, 33, 34; cp. John 3:19; 7:17; 8:43."

"CHRIST'S PARABLES illustrate the nature and principles of the Gospel Dispensation (the Mysteries, i.e. revealed secrets of the Kingdom of Heaven). They have been divided into three groups, according to the part of His Ministry in which they were delivered—viz.:

1. The earliest—Mt. 13; Mk. 4. Illustrations from common facts of Nature.

2. Between the mission of the Seventy and His last journey to Jerusalem. Illustrations of family and social life.

3. Immediately before and after His triumphal entry into Jerusalem. In answer to questions, cavils, etc."

HIS KINGDOM.—"It is only when we take the fourfold narrative in its entirety that we begin to catch sight of the satisfying and convincing fullness of the idea of the kingdom of heaven. This idea underlies the whole Gospel of John. In the Synoptic Gospels we have the conditions of entrance into the kingdom, a childlike spirit, faith, repentance, and obedience—Mt. 18:3; 9:22; 5:20; Lu. 13:3. In John we have the spiritual birth by which alone those conditions are made possible—John 3:5. In the Synoptics we have the laws of the kingdom—Mt. 5-7. In John we have the new life in which alone those laws can be fulfilled—John 6:22-65. In the Synoptics we have the parables and pictures of the kingdom—Mt. 13, etc. In John we have the inmost sense of those parables, spoken directly to the soul, in words of which Christ Himself says 'they are spirit, and they are life.' In the Synoptics we have the new order of human society in the imitation by the disciples of Christ's obedience to the will of God—Mt. 12:50. In John we have the organizing principle of that new order in Christ's revelation of Himself to the disciples as the way, the truth, and the life—John 14:6. In the Synoptics we have the supremacy of Christ's example over men's hearts. In John we have the supremacy of Christ's teachings over men's minds.—HENRY VAN DYKE.

"Put together the Sermon on the Mount, the Charge to the Twelve Apostles, the Parables of the Kingdom, the Discourse in the Supper-room, and the institution of the two great Sacraments, and the plan of our Saviour is before you. And it is enunciated with an accent of calm, unflinching conviction that it will be realized in human history."—HENRY P. LADDON.
